

DIAZ ASKS U. S. AID AS MEXICO ASSISTS NICARAGUAN REVOLT

Interference by Outside Forces Causes Alarm, Kellogg Warns.

BERHARDT IS SILENT ON CALL TO COOLIDGE

Request Viewed as Basis for Use of Navy to Block Landing of Arms.

(By the Associated Press.)

The specter of a Mexican-fostered bolshievelike hegemony intervening between the United States and Panama canal has thrust itself into American-
Mexican relations, already strained.

This striking development in Latin-American relations, which has been lingering near the surface for several weeks, came to light yesterday with an appeal by Adolfo Diaz, new president of Nicaragua, for American intervention to restore peace in that country,

and formed the background of a warning by Secretary of State Kellogg that "interference from outside sources" in Nicaraguan political affairs was viewed with concern in Washington.

President Diaz, immediately on his recognition by the United States, which was extended yesterday in the form of a note by Lawrence Dennis, American charge in Managua, sought American aid against a liberal revolution supported by Mexico.

Based on Reports.

While the American Secretary of State did not go beyond "outside sources" in explaining the recognition of Diaz as the constitutional head of Nicaragua, his warning was founded on official reports showing repeated gun-running expeditions from Mexico
ports to Nicaragua and Guatemala.

In his statement Mr. Kellogg said he hoped Diaz's overtures to the Nicaraguan liberals, in which he promised general amnesty and cabinet posts and sought cooperation in ending the revolution, would be accepted, as the revolution had created "a condition which has invited further interference from outside sources, a state of affairs which must cause concern to every friend
of stability in Central America."

Another development in the situation
today was a call on President Coolidge
by Charles E. Berhardt, American Minister to Nicaragua, who has been in this country on leave. He will depart for his post soon.

Action Not Forecast.

What action the Washington administration will take on the Diaz request for intervention was not forecast. It had not reached the State Department tonight from Managua. Undoubtedly,
however, it affords a basis on which could be founded employment of American naval forces in Nicaraguan waters to prevent the landing of arms
from Mexico for the revolutionists
should the Washington government deem the situation serious enough to warrant that action.

The developments yesterday served to disclose the reasons for the added seriousness with which Mexican-American relations have been considered here for the last ten days. For the moment the question of Mexican interference in Central American countries, presumably for the purpose of fostering radical propaganda and bolshievelike philosophy, has swept off the stage other questions pending between Mexico and the United States, such as the oil and land law and claims controversies.

U. S. Deeply Concerned.

While there is no sign as yet that radical theories similar to those of the Russian soviet regime have taken any deep hold anywhere in Central America, the Washington government can not fail to be deeply concerned as to the purpose of Mexican interference because of the geographical position of those countries, intervening as they do between the United States and the Panama canal.

Even in the diplomatic exchanges on the Mexican land laws there has been increasingly evident a feeling in high official circles here that, at the bottom, American relations with Mexico are being and promise to continue to be clouded by opposition theories of government, between which it has been impossible thus far to find a common meeting ground on which to rest understandings and agreements.

The filibustering expeditions to Nicaragua and Guatemala are known in Washington to have left Mexican ports
under such circumstances as to indicate at least Mexican official connivance
in these enterprises. That they foreshadow similar attempts to promote

Italian Breaks Remaining Air Race Mark Held by U.S.

Schneider Cup Winner Exceeds 3 Kilometer Mark Set
by Doolittle by More than 13 Miles—Hurries Here to Greet Coolidge—Seeks Triumph Over Frenchman.

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 17 (By A. P.).— America's last and only claim to supremacacy in air racing was wiped out today before the spectacular flying of
Maj. Mario de Bernardi, Italian army officer, who flew his little red monoplane over a straightaway 3-kilometer
course at the average rate for four laps of 258.873 miles an hour. His best speed for the route was 273.132 miles per hour, flying with the wind, and his slowest, 243.232 miles against the wind.
This betters the world record for the same distance, made last year at Baltimore by Lieut. James H. Doolittle, U.
S. A., by more than 13 miles. Doolit-tle's record, though beaten, was not declared officially broken last Saturday
when de Bernardi won the international Schneider trophy seaplane race and smashed all previous records for the event.

The test was made over a measured route off Willoughby beach, shortly before 5 o'clock, and was timed by the same devices and officials who acted in the Schneider race. The little Italian, dubbed in aviation circles here "The Flying Fascist," flew the same machine
today in which he set a new record
Saturday in winning the Schneider trophy, making a mark of 246.496 miles for the 350 kilometer course.

After his flight today he jumped from the little Macchi-Plat 800-horsepower motor, changed his clothing in a racing automobile and caught the steamer
for Washington, which had awaited his belated departure to be congratulated by President Coolidge tomorrow morning. He did not learn of his new records until after he had boarded the steamer.

Maj. de Bernardi was late in making his start because of delay in marking off the course, but when he finally was informed that army engineers had completed the survey he did not take him more than ten minutes to set the record. However, as he was pressed for time, he made but four flights over the course, the minimum allowed under the rules of the International Aero-

JUDGE AND POLITICIANS INDICTED IN DRY INQUIRY

Host of Police and Keepers of Saloons at Chicago Also Are Accused.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 17 (By A. P.).—A municipal judge, two police captains
and a host of police and saloonkeepers
of Chicago were indicted today by a Federal grand jury on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.
Seventy-five indictments were returned, and identification of men and women named ranged from the secretary to Chief of Police Morgan A. Collins to beer peddlers.

The indictments followed by several weeks the return of similar writs against 79 officials, police and gangsters of Cicero, turbulent suburb on which Chicago police officials have blamed the difficulty of enforcement.

Federal officials did not reveal the nature of charges against Municipal Judge Henry M. Walker, Capt. John Prendergast, who is Chief Collins' secretary, and some of the others. Walker, however, attributed his indictment to his liberation of minor offenders, while Chief of Police Collins, who several weeks ago turned over his records and promised cooperation to the government, expressed disbelief that the charges against Prendergast were based on fact.

It was a cosmopolitan group which today's indictment named. Frank Rydowski, Jr., son of the vice president of Chicago's board of local improvement, was accused of arranging protection for saloon keepers, and several politicians were indicted as his aids. More than a dozen policemen, including two sergeants, were blamed for aiding in protection of saloon keepers. A former policeman was charged with having turned alcohol runner.

MANILA LEGISLATORS ACCUSE GEN. WOOD

Accuse Him, in Protest, of Usurpations and Arbitrary Government.

Manila, Nov. 17 (By A. P.).—Twenty-six members of the insular legislature
in a conference here today completed
"a most vigorous protest against the arbitrary acts and usurpations of Gov.
Gen. Wood, particularly against the executive order abolishing the board of control."

The protest points out that the first 20 years of civil government was marked by "mutual understanding and loyal cooperation between Americans and Filipinos." But with the coming of Maj. Gen. Wood as governor general, things changed.

"His conduct of the government has been characterized by a train of usurpations and arbitrary acts resulting in the destruction of our autonomy, destruction of our constitutional system and a reversal of America's Philippine policy," the protest declared.

The protest then enumerated 22 instances wherein Wood was charged with usurping power.

Women Held in Death
Of Boy by Whisky

Chicago, Nov. 17 (By A. P.).—A climax to a campaign against sales of liquor to school boys and girls was reached today when Mrs. Plazza Lukasewski and her son-in-law, Charles Poklasky, were arraigned on charges of murder resulting from the death of a 16-year-old boy to whom they were alleged to have sold moonshine from their candy store.

John Pipitowski, the victim, died in the county hospital after drinking moonshine whisky. A coroner's chemical will make an analysis to determine whether death was caused by moonshine poisoning. The accused woman was held without bail.

VERDICT OF MURDER RETURNED BY JURY IN SCRIVENER CASE

Convict Identifies Gun,
but Is Not Put on the Witness Stand.

TWICE FAILED TO FIX IDENTITY OF WEAPON

Decision Reached in Ten Minutes on Woman's Story of Voices in Alley.

Detective Sgt. Arthur B. Scrivener was murdered, the coroner's jury decided yesterday at the conclusion of two days of hearing testimony.

The verdict of murder was only one of the high lights in the developments in the Scrivener case yesterday. Henry Miller Moore, 24 years old, serving two sentences of five years for burglary, had identified the pistol as one he owned
but had thrown away when he thought he was followed by two detectives two weeks before Scrivener was killed.

The importance of this development,
however, was almost immediately minimized by the police themselves, who disclosed that Moore's positive identification of the pistol had come only after he had twice failed to identify the pistol as the one he had owned and tossed into an ash can.

The official verdict of the jury was that Scrivener came to his death as the result of a bullet wound through his heart sustained by the "hand or hands
of some person or persons other than himself unknown to the jury."

Identification Delays Inquest.

Yesterday's session of the inquest,
which was scheduled to start at 11 o'clock, was delayed for nearly an hour,
due to conferences held by members of the coroner's office, district attorney's office and headquarters detectives, concerning the advisability of permitting Moore to testify "identically" of ownership of the Scrivener death gun
by Moore was deemed of the highest importance at that time.

Yesterday morning, in the office of
Maj. Peyton Gordon, United States district attorney, Headquarters Detective Edward J. Kelly laid five or six revolvers of practically the same type
as the death gun on a table in Maj.
Gordon's office. The 38 caliber revolver, found at the feet of Detective Sgt.
Arthur B. Scrivener when his body was discovered in the early morning hours of October 13 lying in the alley across the street from his home at 2123 N. street northwest, was included in the group of weapons.

Moore was asked to look the guns
over carefully and to pick out the gun
he claims he once owned. Glancing rapidly over the revolvers, Moore picked up the Scrivener murder gun.

Twice Failed to Identify.

After a minute examination of "the weapon, Moore told those present that it was the gun he had stolen in Florida and later thrown into a trash box near the corner of Seventh and H streets northwest when apprehended in a company with two friends as they were about to pull a job, only to be picked up.

JOKE VICTIM MAKES MANSLAUGHTER PLEA

Gerald Dwyer, Who Shot and Killed Ruffner, Faces 10 to 20 Year Term.

New York, Nov. 17 (By A. P.).—A practical joke that resulted in the death
of its originator seemed to have run its grim course today when the man on whom it was played pleaded guilty to first degree manslaughter, laying himself open to a sentence, to be imposed later, of from ten to twenty years' imprisonment.

When Gerald Dwyer and Joseph Ruffner were both copy readers on a Washington, D. C., newspaper, Ruffner conceived the joke that was to end tragically.
He told his wife to make an appointment with Dwyer by telephone, planning later to invite Dwyer to their home, to enjoy his embarrassment at discovering the companion of his romantic adventure to be his friend's wife.

The wife followed instructions, but her meeting with Dwyer resulted in an intimacy which caused her to leave her husband. Later both men obtained possitions in New York and Mrs. Ruffner returned to her husband. The two men met and after an argument Dwyer shot Ruffner.

Man Held in Sentence Imposed 18 Years Ago

Washington, Pa., Nov. 17 (By A. P.).
James McDonald, in the Allegheny county workhouse today, pondered over the oft-repeated statement that the law does not forget, even after eighteen years. Returning to his boyhood home in the belief that a shooting for which he was convicted, almost a score of years ago, had been forgotten, Mc-Donald was arrested and taken to prison to serve a two-year sentence.

EDUCATION BOARD BANS LONGER DAY AT SCHOOLS

Finds Public Sentiment Is 5 to 1 Against Proposal Urged by Gen. Fries.

GIRLS WILL BE TRAINED

The board of education yesterday decided that public sentiment was against the proposal to lengthen the school day and to abolish "home work" recently advanced by Maj. Gen. Amos A.
Fries.

Charles F. Carusi, a member of the board and chairman of a special committee, to sound out sentiment on Gen.
Fries' proposal, reported that parents here seemed to be about 5 to 1 against the proposal. The board accepted his report and directed that Gen. Fries be notified of its contents.

The board authorized Dr. Frank Ballou, superintendent of schools, to take steps to establish a vocational training school for young girls at the Dennison school, 8 street near Fourteenth street northwest.

Dr. Ballou explained that the school would offer for girls opportunities corresponding to those offered boys at the Abbott vocational school. The girls, who would be drawn from the elementary grades, would be taught household arts, cafeteria work, training in the care of children, sewing and millinery.

A thorny question of who should have the final voice in the naming of new schools came up again at yesterday's meeting of the board. After repeating several suggestions that had been made in the way of names, Dr.
Ballou explained that it was the established practice to submit suggested names to the District commissioners, who then either approved or disapproved them.

A discussion brought out the fact that there was nothing in law which gave the commissioners power to make decisions on school names.

Mr. Carusi said that, in his opinion, the board of education should have the final say in the matter. He also urged that more schools be named after educators who had left the impression of their personalities on the school system here. Dr. Ballou explained that it has been the practice

Vassar College Girls Call Bob Too Common

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Nov. 17 (By A.
P.).—Vassar college girls are abandoning bobbed hair in all its forms, and returning to long tresses as fast as nature permits. The change in hairdressing style amounts almost to a stampede,
according to the beauty shops catering to the college trade, and while there are some who declare they always will cling to the mannish cut,
the swing back to braids is sweeping.

Hairdressers attribute the sudden shift to the impression among the girls that the bob is too "common,"
as the girls express it.

MAN AND CYCLE FALL AS PARACHUTE FAILS

Flier Who Recently Saved a Woman, Drives Machine
Off 500-Foot Cliff.

Santa Monica, Calif., Nov. 17 (By A.
P.).—An unsuccessful attempt to leap from a 500-foot cliff on a motorcycle and descend to earth in a parachute today probably will cost the life of Fred Osborne, pilot and stunt aviator. With an airplane parachute strapped to his back, Osborne drove off
the Huntington Palisades, north of here, planning to open the safety device as his motorcycle cleared the edge of the precipice and float gently to the sands of the beach below. The parachute failed to open, however, and the motorcycle, dropping into a mass
of telephone and telegraph wires,
hurled Osborne to earth.

Physicians said he had little chance for recovery.

Two days ago a woman stunt flier,
"Bobby" Chase, became tangled in the running gear of an airplane from which she was to make a parachute drop, and dangled aloft. Osborne hurried aloft in another plane and cut her loose. She floated to earth, resolving only minor injuries.

MRS. GIBSON TO GO BEFORE JURY TODAY; WRIT MAY BE USED

Prosecutor Asserts He Is Ready to Use Force
to Get Witness.

HINTS THAT HOSPITAL MAY FIGHT REMOVAL

Testimony, to Be Given on Stretchers, Will Mark Hall
Trial Climax.

Special to The Washington Post.

Somerville, N. J., Nov. 17.—Mrs. Jane Gibson, a humble woman farmer, will testify for the State tomorrow in the murder trial at Somerset county courthouse, where Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson is seeking to fasten the crime of the murder of Mrs. Eleanor R.
Mills, choir singer, of New Brunswick,
upon Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her two brothers, Henry and Willie Stevens.

The "pig woman," who once rode her mule into the dark night and saw strange things, will be only a shadow of her former sturdy self. Lying on a stretchers, appareled in nightgown and bathrobe, she will be a strange contrast to the strong, muscular woman who in gingham apron and straw hat
once cultivated corn and tended pigs,
chickens and blooded dogs on her farm
in Hamilton street near New Brunswick.

Prostrated with the combination of diseases that threatens her existence, lying flat on her back, Mrs. Gibson will confront the rich Mrs. Hall and her brothers.

A doctor and trained nurse will watch her every breath. There will be restoratives within easy reach in case the State's ace of witnesses falters. The pit of the trial chamber, where jury
and opposing counsel sit, will be transformed into a miniature hospital. There will be a thermometer to take her temperature and a stethoscope with which to test her heart action.

Climax of Drama.

Thus there is promised a preeminence
of the drama of the famous trial, which has mounted from dramatic heights to still higher climax and which saw an intermission today.

Perhaps never in the history of American legal procedure has testimony in a murder trial been taken under such a stage setting. At times, since Mrs. Gibson was stricken on the second day of the trial, it seemed that the hand of death was about to intervene to prevent Mrs. Hall and Henry and Willie Stevens from the ordeal of confrontation by the pig woman. Upon her story and the jury's consideration of that story the whole case must stand or fall.

But Mrs. Gibson, assisted by a battery of eight doctors, including two

The outstanding property is ap-

Senator Smoot, of Utah, chairman of the commission, is to seek legislation
to acquire the area, and Chairman

HYATTSVILLE MAN, HEAD OUT OF AUTO, IS KILLED

Robert Johnson Dies When He Seeks Air After Sudden Illness.

OBJECT NOT DETERMINED

Robert Johnson, 24 years old, automobile mechanic of Hyattsville, Md., was killed last night when he struck his head out of an automobile window. It had not been determined at a late hour whether his head struck another automobile, a telegraph pole or some other object.

The accident happened on Bunker Hill road, near Eighteenth street northeast. Johnson and his wife were coming into the city with Stephen Etzler, 702 A street northeast, and Miss Bernice Hutton, 1739 Thirteenth street
northeast. Etzler, who was driving, first gave his brother's name as he was using his permit, his own having been revoked.

Etzler told police he and Miss Hutton had paid a call on the Johnsons and were coming into the city. On the way, he said, Johnson complained that he was sick and put his head out of the window to get air. A moment later, Etzler said, he heard a "thump." Mrs.
Johnson became hysterical. Johnson was pronounced dead at Garfield hospital. Mrs. Johnson's first husband also was killed in an automobile hit and run accident.

WORKMAN IS KILLED AS WALL CAVES IN

G. W. Smallwood Buried by Avalanche at New Walter Reed Structure.

Crushed when the 4-inch brick wall of a building under construction in the Walter Reed hospital grounds gave way and fell upon him at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, George William Smallwood, 36 years old, 123 Payne street, Alexandria, Va., suffered injuries from which he died 50 minutes later.

Smallwood, who was employed as a carpenter's helper for the Fred Drew Construction Co., was just leaving the partially erected structure when the cave-in occurred. According to police the wall was weakened by freshly mixed concrete which was being poured upon it as Smallwood passed beneath it.
Taken from beneath the pile of debris he was rushed to the hospital dispensary, where he was treated by Dr. G. Manning in an effort to save his life. There will be an inquest tomorrow at 10 a. m.

Those close to the queen emphasized
today that no information had been received indicating that the king's condition is alarming and that it would be wrong to construe any decision on her part to sail at once as proof that the king's condition was serious. There was no disposition, however, to hide
the fact that the king is a sick man.

Doctor Says He Advised Care.

Danville, Ill., Nov. 17 (By A. P.).— Although somewhat shaken up when her own automobile, which she was driving side-swiped a truck at Grant Park, Ill., today while she was en route
from Chicago to Indianapolis, Princess Ileana continued her trip to the Hoosier capital instead of entering a hospital here as she was advised to do.

Dr. R. F. Donovan, at Danville, Ill., said that he examined the princess and advised her to enter the hospital to recover from the nervous reaction
following the accident, and telephoned for reservation.

Special Guard at Cleveland.

Cleveland, Nov. 17 (By A. P.).—One

The decision to provide an armed escort for the royal party was announced today by Safety Director Edwin D. Barry, following a conference with city officials. Fear of possible disorders during the queen's reception
here resulted from an indignation meeting last night attended by several hundred members of Hungarian societies who had previously been unsuccessful in an attempt to present
a petition of protest to the city council.
Mayor John D. Marshall, after a stormy council session Monday in which one member attempted to force a reading of the protest, branded the petition as

12 PIRATES KILLED BATTLED BRITISH ON SHIP OFF CHINA

Brigands Seize Control of Vessel, but Later Are Overpowered.

ANOTHER IS DROWNED;
CRUISER OVERTAKES 9

Craft Is Fired in Course of Fight and Is Badly Damaged by Flames.

Hongkong, Nov. 17 (By A. P.).—Twelve pirates were killed, one drowned and nine captured in a desperate battle on the decks of the British steamer Sunning and a subsequent pursuit of the fleeing buccaniers 8 miles off Hongkong. It was learned here today when the ship, badly damaged by fire and bearing gruesome marks of the encounter, was towed into port under guard.

As the captured pirates were rushed to jail, officers of the ship told the story of the fight.

When the vessel was being chased late Monday afternoon, 40 pirates rushed the rails, overpowering nearby officers at the point of revolvers and taking control of the ship by putting two of their number on the bridge.

Officers Fired Revolvers.

Chief Officer T. H. Beatty and Second Officer J. W. Hurst, who had been held at bay by the pirates, finally found two revolvers and 190 rounds of ammunition, and at midnight decided to attempt to regain control of the ship.

Brandishing their guns, they rushed the bridge. The two pirates on the bridge were moved down by the officers and left apparently lifeless. This put the officers in control of the ship's workings.

Shortly afterward one of the "lifeless" buccaniers revived and fired point blank at them but missed. The butt of a carbine snatched from the deck by one of the defenders laid him out again. Then another pirate rushed the bridge. A revolver duel ensued at close range and he fell dead.

The remaining buccaniers, seeing their plans going down to defeat because of the pluck of the British seamen, then seized G. Cormack, chief engineer of the Sunning, and using him for a shield, rushed to the steps of the bridge in the fighting.

Here the two defenders turned loose their deadliest fire, and eleven pirates were slain. Cormack was wounded in the chest and leg.

Realizing their efforts to retake possession of the ship were futile, the boarders then fired the first-class accommodations of the ship, hoping to make the bridge too hot for the officers, but the wind carried the flames aft and away from the control, incinerating the dead and dying pirates and making it impossible to resume the attack on Beatty and Hurst.

The flames then attracted the British cruiser Bluebell and other vessels. Meanwhile, the attackers launched two lifeboats and disappeared in the darkness, taking with them H. W. Lapsley, an employee of the Eastern Extension service.

A heavy sea was running. A woman passenger whose name was not given was put off in a lifeboat by the third officer, who feared for her safety. This boat later was picked up by the Norwegian steamer Revenasjell.

One of Boats Captured.

The Bluebell arrived alongside and put a naval guard aboard, setting out then in pursuit of the two boatloads of pirates. One boat, containing ten of them, was sighted. On being overtaken, one of them jumped overboard and was drowned and the others were taken captive.

The British steamer Suiyang, learning of the Sunning's distress, altered her course and came to the rescue. By that time the fire had been subdued and after two attempts the Suiyang succeeded in getting a tow rope aboard the Sunning, but it broke.

Last night, however, a tug from Hong Kong arrived and took her in tow.

The Sunning, a ship of about 2,500 tons, was on its way here from Amoy, Tokyo, Nov. 17 (By A. P.).—The Navy Department announced today it was sending a gunboat to Canton because of the increase of piracy in Chinese waters.

Chilean Ministry
Resign Portfolios

Santiago, Chile, Nov. 17 (By A. P.).—The Chilean cabinet, headed by Maximiliano Ibanez, resigned today.

The Ibanez cabinet was formed in December, 1925, when Emiliano Figueroa-Larrain succeeded Arturo Alessandri as president.

Santiago dispatches Tuesday said that War Minister Carlos Ibanez, who is considered the power behind the government, had recommended the resignation of the cabinet to the president.

Lakes Association
Opposes Harbor Bill

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 17 (By A. P.).—The Great Lakes Harbors Association of the United States and Canada today went on record as opposed to the rivers and harbors bill now pending before the Senate, unless it is amended to eliminate a reference to Illinois and the Chicago sanitary district.

This stand was incorporated in a resolution passed at the closing session of the organization's convention in Chicago into its drainage canal was a violation of a treaty with Canada.

"KING BEN." SEIZED AT HOUSE OF DAVID, FREED IN $120,000

Bail Set at $100,000 in Two Criminal Cases; Civil Suit Bond Required.

SEVEN OTHERS TAKEN
IN MIDNIGHT RAID

Texas Officials Investigate
Colony of 25 Women
Under 3 Patriarchs.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Nov. 17 (By A. P.).—Benjamin Franklin Purnell, 69-year-old "king" of the strange religious colony, the House of David, sought for more than three years as a despoiler of young womanhood under the guise of religious rites, is in the toils.

The gaunt, long-haired king who in 1903 founded the colony from which it has been estimated he has derived $200,000, was taken from his sleeping quarters early today in a raid by State police, released under $50,000 bond, and a few hours later rearrested when the police found when they entered the colony's administration building.

Instead there was a feeble old man, hardly able to walk without assistance. A taciturn, silent man who admitted his identity and then left what more there was to be said to his wife, "Queen Mary."

Two sisters—Ruth Bamford Reed and Gladys Bamford Reed—made the charges which prompted a world-wide search for the man who had been denounced by Federal Judge John E. Slater as the man who "plated sin with the gold of religion."

The girls, one 20, the other 22 years, swore that Purnell had assaulted them while they were members of the colony. "Blood purification rites" was the explanation the "king" made for the liberties the Bamford sisters alleged were taken, not only with them but with other girl members of the colony.

The $120,000 bond was signed by eight Benton Harbor business men. Judge White held that the colony property is in trust and therefore is not legal security.

Strange Sect in Texas.

Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 17 (By A. P.).—A religious sect composed of 25 women and three men, one of whom is a bearded patriarchal leader, is preparing today to abandon its two-story residence here and leave town following questioning yesterday by county and city officials.

Officer went to the house on a tip, subsequently proved unfounded, that the leader was "King" Benjamin Purnell, of the Benton Harbor, Mich., House of David.

"We are living like Jesus," the gray-bearded cult master, giving the name of J. W. Stanford, informed the officials and newspaper men. He said there is "a lot of talk about Jesus in other churches," but that "few actually follow out the precepts of the Man of Galilee."

The leader, 60 years old, said his following had no connection whatever with the House of David.

Pressed for information, the leader revealed that eleven of the women have been living downstairs with him while the others have been staying upstairs with the other two men. The upstairs women get odd jobs, while the two men, owners of a small truck, earn something with it.

"These women," said the leader, indicating those of the downstairs group, "do not work. They worship."

Dairymen Is Slain
In Holdup Attempt

New York, Nov. 17 (By A. P.).—Two hold-up men shot and killed Frank Fruchtmann, proprietor of a Brooklyn dairy, early today in an attempt to rifle the cash register of his store. The robbers escaped.

As Fruchtmann turned to serve them, one of them drew a pistol and ordered the dairyman to hold up his hands. Fruchtmann lowered his hands for a moment in a protesting gesture and was shot. He fell to the floor and the robbers fled to a sedan waiting at the curb.

A passerby told police he saw a woman waiting for the men in the car.

SYNTHETIC GASOLINE
PRODUCED FROM COAL

German Inventor Says That Various Bitumens Give Semi-Petroleum.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 17 (By A. P.).—A treatise on the transmutation of synthetic gasoline from coal was submitted to the international conference on bituminous coal here today by Prof. Franz Fischer, director of the Institute for Coal Research at Mulheim-Ruhr, Germany.

Prof. Fischer, inventor of a liquid fuel oil which he calls "synthol," said it was possible to produce petroleum-like products from the bitumens of coal, peat and oil shale and from wax and fats by decomposing these materials through distillation at low temperatures with or without pressure.

"Synthol" is a mixture of alcohol, aldehydes and hydrocarbons, and already has been successfully used in automobile engines as a substitute for gasoline, according to Prof. Fischer.

Spanish Loan Oversubscribed.

Madrid, Nov. 17 (By A. P.).—The 225,000,000 peseta federal loan, placed on the market yesterday, has been vastly oversubscribed. The subscription today totaled 567,000,000 pesetas, or about two and a half times the amount of the offering.

Testimony has also shown that Barnett signed over to his young wife, a white girl, the sum of $100,000, that he gave to the Baptist society. They were married, according to previous statements, after he was twice abducted by her.

Barnett, who is illiterate and signs all papers with his thumbprint, showed no interest in the hearing. It was testified today that when the gift was made he was "living in a squalid four-room house that had no fireplace, sharing the house with four negroes."

Barnett's wealth came when oil was discovered on his land, though it is said that Barnett did not know at the time that he owned the land.

LEADERS UNMOVED BY TALK OF EXTRA CONGRESS SESSION

Progressives and Democrats Indicate Goal Through the Medium of Filibuster.

BROOKHART AND FEW OTHERS MAKE DEMAND

Unfavorable Attitude of Coolidge and People Cited in Points Against Move.

By NORMAN W. BAXTER.

Progressive and Democratic political thunder, which would indicate that an extra session storm is brewing, through the medium of a filibuster in the coming session of Congress, has caused little if any alarm among the real party leaders now in Washington.

Discussion of the subject yesterday
with members of all three factions developed very clearly that the idea of bringing Congress back here March 4 is confined to isolated individuals, who by themselves have little opportunity to accomplish any such purpose.

So far the specific demand for an extra session appears to have been confined to Smith W. Brookhart and some of the leading Democratic orators, all of whom lack the power to force what they demand.

The legislators, in whose hands the decision of such a political move rests,
are inclined to be exceedingly chary
about any such prediction.

There appear to be five reasons why such form of strategy will be adopted.

Not Desired By Coolidge.

1. President Coolidge does not want an extra session. The chief executive has demonstrated and said time after time that he thought Congress capable of transacting its business in the regular time allotted to it.

2. The Progressive bloc is too interested in strategy designed to bring out a leader to succeed the late Senator La Follette to unite upon any course of action immediately. Once the impenent leadership problem has been settled the situation may change.

No Visible Benefit.

3. Democratic party chiefs know that there is no visible benefit to be gained through an extra session. The House in the Seventieth Congress will be as safely Republican as ever, so that the administration could block any move that the Democrats and insurgents in the Senate might seek to force through.

The only factor that appears to lend any credence to the talk of an extra session is that it is perfectly practicable for the Democrats and insurgents to force one if they care to do so. There are enough controversial measures on the Senate calendar, such as the rivers and harbors bill, the railroad bill, the Muscle Shoals lease and the railroad interest bill, to furnish the topic for unlimited conversation
in the world's greatest deliberative body.

There are, moreover, the appropriation bills, but even if some of these should become involved in a legislative jam it is more than likely that a continuing resolution would be passed in the last few hours of the session
which would enable the government departments to carry on their work.

May Be Log Rolling.

There is a decided prospect of a legislative stalemate, except for the appropriation bills and one or two other measures. Senate sentiment seems to be that favorable action will be obtained on the rivers and harbors bill
by resort to "log-rolling," that the railroad interest bill, which provides for a refunding of the money that the railroads owe the government, will be passed if it can be brought to a vote;
that action on the Muscle Shoals lease
will be blocked once more by the Progressives and that tax reduction, rebate
or refund, whichever it may prove to be,
has started on an exceedingly stony path.

The confusion of ideas on the subject of tax relief was only increased yesterday by the visit of Senator Charles Curtis, Senate majority floor leader, to the Treasury for conferences with Secretary Mellon and Gen. Andrews. The Kansas senator refused, following his call, to discuss the nature
of the topics that were touched upon,
and said regarding the tax bill that he could not comment on it until he had seen the measure in black and white.

It is stage that many congressional leaders believe it will have much difficulty in reaching.

JUDGE, POLITICIANS
INDICTED IN ILLINOIS

Eight men were identified as beer peddlers.

A former deputy sheriff was charged with having turned to operating stills.
Two operators of a prominent south side resort were named, one as a still operator. The bailiff of the municipal court was indicted, as was a former bailiff. Several were identified as former police officers, and were charged with being alcohol peddlers or collectors of graft. The saloon-keepers were identified in the charges as "protected"
or as "specially protected." In both groups were several women. Other witnesses named men accused as alcohol dealers and peddlers and as makers of wine. Sprinkled among the names were those of "politicians" charged with cognizance of protection and with a hand in arranging it.

The writs allege four overt acts,
charging conspiracy to manufacture,
transport and sell liquor and to maintain a public nuisance. Each count enumerates fourteen overt acts. Among these are an alleged tip by a bailiff
to saloon keepers of an impending raid, and a meeting between Ryzewski and Prendergast.

Edwin Olson, federal district attorney, announced in making public the indictments belief that the law can be enforced, "the crooks holding positions in the Chicago police department
must be cleaned out."

Mussolini Praised At Italian Meeting

Tracing the development of Italy
from Rome to the present day, Leonardo Vitelli, first secretary of the Italian embassy, last night addressed a special meeting of the Circolo Italiano di Washington held at the Raleigh hotel,
in commemoration of the eighth anniversary of the battle of Vittorio Veneto, Italian world war victory.

The speaker paid tribute to Benito Mussolini, comparing his traits to those of early Roman statesmen. Among those who attended were the Italian Ambassador, Noble Giacomo De Martino; the Minister from Panama, Dr.
Don Ricardo J. Alfaro, and the Italian military attaché, Gen. Augusto Villa.
The speaker was introduced by Michele
C. Strizzi, vice president of the club.

HOTELS ON DIRIGIBLES FOR LONDON-INDIA LINE

Dance Floors, Showers and Elevators in Plans Shown to the Premiers.

DAILY PAPERS POSSIBLE

(Special Cable Dispatch.)

London, Nov. 17.—Luxurious air liners, with dance floors, shower baths,
elevators and promenade decks, verifi-cable aerial hotels, were revealed to the dominion premiers this afternoon when they visited the royal airship works
at Cardington.

Today's visit concludes these demonstrations to the dominion leaders of Great Britain's might on land, on the sea, and in the air. The premiers were shown models of the new airships and the plans for the R-101, one of the two mammoth airships to be used in the experimental flights from England to India, with a view to establishing a regular air service.

The new ships each will carry 100 passengers and ten tons of mail. There will be sleeping cabins of two to four berths, lounging and smoking rooms,
fully equipped kitchens, dance halls,
shower baths, wireless equipment and possibly a daily newspaper. Tests have been carried on for two years to insure complete safety. Stainless steel is used for the girders and propellers.

The kitchen is on the lower deck,
with an elevator to the dining room.
The ship's minimum speed will be 70
miles an hour at 5,000 feet of altitude.
The dominions will be asked to pay for erecting mooring masts.

It is estimated that these airships
will cut ten days from the traveling time between London and Bombay, eighteen days from the trip from England to Australia and thirteen days
from the journey to South Africa.

PERMANENT TAX CUT
DEMANDED BY GARNER

Ranking Democrat on House

Committee Opposes Plan

for Refund.

Opposition to the administration
plan for reducing taxes by repealing
the corporation tax was voiced yesterday by Representative John N. Garner, of Texas, ranking Democrat on the committee on ways and means.
He declared for "permanent reduction or nothing." If this antagonism to one of the outstanding points in the administration's plan becomes general,
tax reduction in the short session starting December 6 is believed to be endangered.

Representative Garner wishes to cut the corporation tax from 13 1/2 per cent to 11 per cent and repeal all the so-called nuisance taxes, including the automobile, admissions and dues levies. He believes his plan would save the taxpayers $400,000,000 or more,
which would be justified by a surplus
for this year of almost $500,000,000,
which he believes to be in sight.

"Why should we give back to the corporations, including the Aluminum Co. of America, taxes which they already have collected from the consumers?" Mr. Garner asked, referring to the administration proposal to repeal the corporations' tax. "Let's make a scientific and permanent tax revision," he urged.

The proposed credit on this year's incomes be raised to 12 1/2 per cent was received favorably by Representative Martin B. Madden, of Illinois, chairman of the House appropriations committee. He said he saw no reason why the refund could not be made applicable to payments due next March.

naval federation, although he could have flown as many times as he wished with the four best consecutive marks
being taken for his average.

Times on the Four Laps.

The times on the four laps, two with
and two against the wind, were as follows:

Against wind, 248.548.
With wind, 272.132.
Against wind, 243.232.
With wind, 271.582.

His fastest trip over the course with a 20-mile wind prevailing was made in 24.66 seconds and his slowest in the face of the same wind was covered in 27.59 seconds. The first trip took 27 seconds and the fourth 24.71, indicating that had he chosen to make more trips over the course his average of 258.873 would have been bettered.

The three-kilometer course (1.86411 miles), laid out along Willoughby beach, across Little Bay from the Hampton Roads naval air station, was traversed so quickly that the watching crowd hardly realized that the trial was on until they were completed and the plane had darted back to its hangar much as a humming bird seeks its nest.

The record set by Doolittle last year
in the plane that ran second in last Saturday's race was 245.713 miles per hour. It was the only one left to America after de Bernardi had flashed meteor-like around the course. The new record set today is 13.18 miles faster than Doolittle's speed and is the fastest man has ever traveled in a seaplane. The land plane record of 278.48 miles an hour, set by Anthony G. Bon-ville of France, is only a little more than 6 miles an hour faster than de Ber-nardi's fastest trip today.

LOWDEN FARM PLAN INDORSED IN COTTON AND CORN MEETING

Conference Criticizes Parties
for Failure to Assist Agriculture.

STRONGER BLOC URGED TO DEFEND FARMER

Declaration Asks Reduction of Duties on Steel
and Chemicals.

St. Louis, Nov. 17 (By A. P.).—Early legislation to "vent" the farmers to control and manage excess supplies of crops at their own expense so as to secure cost of production with a reasonable profit, was demanded of Congress
in a declaration of principles adopted
at the closing session here today of the Cotton and Corn States conference.

"We assert our conviction," the statement says, "that such legislation must function through and foster cooperative marketing."

Outstanding points of the declaration are:

Indorsement of the Federal farm board plan sponsored by Frank O. Low-den, former governor of Illinois, a plan
similar in principle to the McNary-Haugen bill of last winter, to create a board with power to withhold surpluses and prorrate the cost among the producers.

Tariff Cut Demanded.

Criticism of both political parties in Congress for failure in the past to provide adequate farm relief.

A demand for immediate reduction in tariff duties on such basic materials
as aluminum, steel and chemicals,
which duties, it is charged, "afford shelter for price-fixing monopolies."

A suggestion for congressional investigation of certain phases of agricultural legislation, particularly "the interrelationship which appears to give industry and agriculture, interested as dealers and speculators, a deciding voice in the enactment and administration of agricultural legislation."

A demand for a permanent program
for cotton, and criticism of the plan of the President's cotton commission, to withdraw 4,000,000 surplus bales from the market as "uneconomic" and a "temporary expedient."

Effective Bloc Urged.

A defense of the "bloc system" in Congress and a request that senators and representatives from agricultural regions "organize themselves into an aggressive and effective unit, regardless of party, to express and work for the economic interests of agriculture."

Senator-elect Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa, spoke briefly at the round table
discussion today, setting forth the de-gates they were wise in not indorring
any specific farm relief bill. He declared a Federal farm board with a minimum fund of $1,500,000,000 and power to purchase and withhold surplus crops
would insure the farmer's cost of production and a 5 per cent profit.

Grange Will Investigate
Bars on American Ships

Portland, Me., Nov. 17 (By A. P.).—

Charges that American ships opened bar outside the 12-mile limit and sold intoxicating liquors to passengers formed the basis of a resolution which the committee on resolutions of the Grange has before it tonight. The resolution seeks an investigation by the National grange executive committee and formal complaint to the proper Federal authorities if evidence to support the accusations can be found.

This action was sought by George R.
Harrison, of Maine, who stated that the delegate stated on the floor that he had seen liquor sold on an American vessel bound from New York to the Pacific coast.

Mr. Harrison, in another resolution,
asked the National grange to favor compulsory penitentiary sentences for any person convicted of driving an automobile while intoxicated.

political disorder in other Central American countries is not doubted by responsible American officials.

The gun-running ships, of which the American government has knowledge,
are these:

The steamer Tropical, which loaded arms in a Mexican port, but on touching at Salvador was detained until the Mexican Minister intervened. There are indications that this steamer belonged to the Mexican government, or was under its orders.

The steamer Foam, which went from New York to a Mexican port and later proceeded as an armed ship and participated on the liberal side in the fighting in Nicaragua at Bluefields and Braganza Bluff.

The steamer Jalisco, owned by the government-owned Mexican National Lines, and apparently commanded by former Mexican naval officers. The schooners Star and Palomita, the last-named of which was under the Mexican flag. They both carried armed troops and machine guns into Nicaraguan waters.

Diaz Asks U. S. Aid.

Managua, Nicaragua, Nov. 17 (By A.
P.).—Adolfo Diaz, newly inaugurated
president of Nicaragua, has requested American intervention to put his country, which now is struggling with a revolution, on a peace basis.

In his request, made to the American legation, he stated that a small, well-known such as Nicaragua could not such a revolution aided by Mexico.

A commission appointed from among the liberal revolutionists has left Bluefields for Guatemala to request former Vice President Sacasa to return to Nicaragua and to establish a liberal government on the east coast.

Efforts to bring peace to Nicaragua,
which has been torn by outbreaks of liberal revolutionists for some months,
recently were made by American Charge d'Affaires Lawrence Dennis, who arranged a parley in Corinto. After much discussion the conference broke up without definite results.

Returning to the Capital yesterday,

RETENTION OF GERMAN WAR PROPERTY URGED

North German Lloyd Attorney Defends Attitude of Company Toward U. S.

(By the Associated Press.)

A plan for returning all German property which was used for peaceful purposes and confiscation of that used for hostile purposes was advanced before the House ways and means committee yesterday as a method of settling the alien property problem. It immediately provoked a wrangle over the war record of the North German Lloyd lines.

William C. Armstrong, attorney for American claimants against Germany, suggested the plan and in doing so listed the steamship line in the hostile
group. This brought Edgar W. Hunt, counsel for the company, bounding to the front with the assertion that the company's record after American entry into the war was as clean as a hound's tooth.

Hunt was so vigorous in his defense
of his client that he completely drowned out Armstrong for a time. The two then engaged in a debate over the subject which held the committee's attention to the exclusion of all else. The claim was made by Armstrong that the German emperor and members of the junkie class in Germany owned stock in the steamship company and in large industries in the United States which had been used in a hostile manner
against this country. This property, valued at $70,000,000, he argued, should not be turned back, but should be used to pay back the German individuals who kept their property strictly in legitimate business channels.

COURT GETS NOTES OF CAROL TO MARIE IN WIFE'S BEHALF

Former Roumanian Heir to Crown Defended Child's Legitimacy.

MME. LAMBRINO'S SUIT IS PUSHED IN PARIS

Hohenzollern Government of Balkan Country Under Bitter Attack.

Paris, Nov. 17 (By A. P.).—The obligations of former Crown Prince Carol of Roumania to his former morganatic wife, Mme. Zizi Lambrino, and the status of their 6-year-old son, Mircea, born of that union, will be the subjects of a judgment to be rendered a week hence by the first chamber of the Seine department tribunal.

This court, with Mme. Lambrino attending solely during her own lawyer's pleadings, devoted this afternoon to listening to the airing of Carol's marital woes, the reading of his love letters to Zizi and his beseechings to Queen Marie to allow him to retain Zizi as his wife. Carol was not present, being represented by the socialist deputy, M. Paul-Boncour. Zizi, whom her lawyer, Albert Salmon, styled "Madame," Lambrino, former Princess Von Hohenzollern, wearing a velvet mantle and blue hat, twined her fingers and rubbed her nose nervously while her attorney went into the most intimate details of her romance with the crown prince.

He read letters from Carol to Queen Marie beginning "Dear Marie," and insisting "I cannot have Zizi left in this ridiculous and equivocal position, and never could I permit myself to be born out of my marriage should be considered illegitimate."

Attacks Roumanian Rule.
Queen Marie, the attorney declared, never replied. M. Salmon, in the course of his address to the court, played the entire Roumanian governmental system, asserting that the Hohenzollerns had caused the insertion in the constitution of a clause providing that no members should attempt to interest the presidents of the senate and chamber in having the nullification decree set aside.

"The Roumanian parliament," he said, "is elected under the orders of the monarchy."

Mme. Lambrino, her counsel explained, received Carol's letter of rupture of November 18, 1920. The prince wrote: "I am vanquished. Love of my country has forced my hand. I resisted to the last, but circumstances beyond my control compel the decision."

All Mme. Lambrino obtained in the way of legal papers for Mircea, continued M. Salmon, was a birth certificate, making him out an illegitimate child.

"She insists that he have the name of Hohenzollern from the beginning of his school career," M. Salmon exclaimed, summoning Carol thus to regularize the situation and pay the Bureau of the Lycee Michelet, at the same time granting Mme. Lambrino 10,000,000 francs, the amount of damages she claims for prejudice caused her.

Asserting emphatically that Mircea was born before the annulment decree was effective—Which M. Paul-Boncour vigorously combated—M. Salmon concluded with an attack on the Roumanian monarchy, comparing it with the French dynasty of the eighteenth century. The attorney did not cite any letters from Carol to King Ferdinand, but produced one from Carol to Zizi in which he recounted that he had begged and pleaded with his mother to have the decree quashed, but unavailingly.

Court Called Incompetent.
M. Paul-Boncour's defense is based, first, on the incompetency of the French court to settle a question between Roumanian subjects; second, the fact that Mme. Lambrino never appealed to the Roumanian courts to offset the annulment; third, that Mircea, according to the strict legal view, could not be considered born within 300 days from the issuance of the nullity decree, and therefore was born out of wedlock; fourth, relating to damages, that there was no breach of promise, inasmuch as their marriage at Odessa was legal until set aside, and, furthermore, that Zizi was receiving 110,000 French francs annually, which would go to Mircea in the event of her demise; and, finally, that the royal Hohenzollern house deliberately winked at her infraction of a signed convention with the Bank of Roumania in which she engaged not to bother the royalties under penalty of losing her whole fortune of 2,200,000 francs.

Carol's legal domicile, his counsel declared, is Roumania, although he is now living in the Paris suburb of Neuilly, where Zizi Lambrino also resides.

Kidnaped Candidate Runs 9th in Election

Lowell, Mass., Nov. 17 (By A. P.).—Patrolman John W. Mahan, who charged that he was kidnaped on the eve of the Lowell mayoralty primary, received 40 votes and finished ninth in a field of 10, the count showed today. Lowell's city elections are nonpartisan. The two highest candidates in the primary, Thomas J. Corbett and Thomas N. Braden, were nominated.

Patrolman Mahan charged graft and liquor trafficking during his campaign. He appeared the night preceding the election, with a black eye and a huge lump on his right cheek bone, and told of being kidnaped by four foreigners.

Sistine Madonna Canvas Not All Done by Raphael

Dresden, Nov. 17 (By A. P.).—Germany's most treasured work of art, the "Sistine Madonna," in the Dresden gallery, one of the world's greatest paintings, is as it hangs today not wholly the work of the great Raphael, says Dr. Moritz Stibel, German art historian, who has investigated the mysteries which for centuries have veiled the origin of the masterpiece.

Unidentified artists, Stibel says, nearly ruined the painting after the master's death. The virgin and the child, the aged male figure at her right and young woman on the left are Raphael's work, but the two angels in the foreground, the drapes and the sky, Stibel says, were painted in toward the end of the sixteenth century.

Stibel asserts that the male figure is Pope Julius II, who called Raphael to Rome under his patronage in 1508. Saint Barbara, the woman in the picture, Stibel holds, is the Pope's niece, the beautiful Leonora Gonzaga, Duchess of Urbino. The historian concludes that the madonna was really intended as a sort of private family portrait.

Douglas, Ga., Nov. 17 (By A. P.).—Nine men charged with murder in connection with the lynching of Dave Wright in Coffee county last August 27 pleaded guilty in the superior court here today, and the special term of court convened to try the lynching cases was adjourned.

Maj. Brown entered his plea after Maj. Brown, regarded as the leader of the mob, entered a plea after four jurors had been selected to try him. Judge Reed sentenced him to life imprisonment.

After a few preliminaries eight other defendants indicated they wished to plead guilty. They were Archie Tanner, George Lott, Paul Cady, Willie Arnold, Willie Tanner, Joe Hutto, Alma Hester and Charlie Adams. They received sentences of from four to twenty years.

Three other defendants in the same case are in jail, Jack Lastinger, John Strickland and Tilden Smith. They declined to plead.

Big Prisoner Flees Through Small Hole

Hyattsville police last night were trying to puzzle out the answer to the escape from their jail of an unidentified colored man who was 6 feet tall and weighed 200 pounds.

The man had been taken from a train charged with riding on a mail train and lodged in the Bladenburg jail. When the water rose about that jail following the rainstorm he was removed to the Hyattsville jail. The hole through which he is supposed to have escaped measured 13 inches long and 8 inches wide.

JEWISH COUNCIL HEARS TALK ON WORLD PEACE

Lack of Class Distinction
Here Held Potent Factor
by Mrs. Winter.

OFFICERS ARE NOMINATED

Absence of class distinction between people of America promises to be a potent factor in the maintenance of world peace, Mrs. Alice Ames Winter, of Minneapolis, past president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, declared last night in an address before the eleventh triennial convention of the National Council of Jewish Women in session at the Washington hotel.

Mrs. Winter's address was preceded by a procession of 235 sectional presidents of the national council around the hall, carrying lighted candles. Mrs. William Dick Sporborg, national president, stood on the stage holding a large candle, from which the sectional president lighted the smaller ones that they carried. The ceremony was symbolic of the educational and religious enlightenment being carried throughout the country by the 235 chapters of the council.

All of the newly nominated officers of the national body were called to the platform and introduced to the audience at the close of the program last night. They included:

Mrs. Alexander Wolf, of this city, was nominated yesterday afternoon for reelection today to the office of second vice president of the National Council of Jewish Women. Mrs. Leonard Schloss, of this city, was nominated as one of the nine directors to be elected today.

Other candidates nominated by the committee yesterday follow: Mrs. Joseph Friend, of New Orleans, La., for the office of president of the council; Mrs. William Dick Sporborg, of Port Chester, N. Y., appointed last April as acting head of the council, declined the nomination for president of the body.

Capital Man Stowaway To Cuba on College Bet

Havana, Cuba, Nov. 17 (By A. P.).—Paul Roundtree, of Washington, D. C., a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and a Harvard law student, paying a bet with another Harvard law student who is a graduate of Princeton, arrived here today as a stowaway on the United Fruit Liner Ulua.

Roundtree, who was taken to the immigration camp, later was released and is awaiting funds for his return trip home.

The bet was on the Harvard-Princeton football game. The loser was to stowaway for Havana, buy a bottle of Cuban rum and bring it back with him.

The latter part of the contract he now felt he could not fulfill, and he is going back empty-handed.

Stem, Terre Haute: Mrs. Charles Long, Wilkes-Barre; Mrs. Maurice Goldman, Houston; Mrs. George Goldsmith, Los Angeles; Mrs. James Gims, Wilmington; Mrs. A. S. Kohler, Savannah, and Mrs. S. S. Gelsman, Cincinnati, directors.

Mrs. Sporborg was nominated honorary vice president. Little opposition to the election of the ticket drawn up by the nominating committee is expected at the election today. Folia will be open today from 9:30 a. m. to 3 p. m.

Reports and administrative matters concerning the organization were considered yesterday and Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, former president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, spoke last night on "America and the World."

A pilgrimage to Mount Vernon and Arlington National cemetery will be made by the delegates and guests at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. The convention will close tomorrow afternoon at 12:30 o'clock.

Madrid Authorizes New Embassy Here

Madrid, Nov. 17 (By A. P.).—Spain shortly is to have a new home for its embassy in Washington.

The council of ministers has authorized Foreign Minister Yanguas to negotiate for the acquisition of a site on Sixteenth street. The site will cost $250,000.

BALTIMORE & OHIO MOTOR COACH TRAIN CONNECTION SERVICE

WHEN you go to NEW YORK on the Baltimore & Ohio you will appreciate the improvement in service that does away with terminal annoyances and difficulties upon your arrival.

No long walks, no stairs to climb, no bother with hand-baggage, nor the usual terminal inconveniences.

You simply step from the train, in the Jersey City Terminal, directly into the comfortable Motor Coach waiting right on the platform alongside of the train—Even your hand-baggage is checked by the Train Attendant and cared for until your arrival in the Heart of New York.

Motor Coaches meet all incoming trains and cover two routes—uptown and downtown NEW YORK—with stops at convenient points.

The Coach Stations are located at Pershing Square on 42nd St. just east of Park Ave. and directly opposite Grand Central Terminal. Also in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, 33rd St. corner of Astor Court.

When you return Motor Coach Service takes you from the Motor Coach Stations right to the train in Jersey City. And your hand-baggage is checked right to your seat in the train.

There is no extra charge for this added service.

New York Motor Coach Stops

PUBLIC BUILDING SITES.

Approval yesterday by the public buildings commission of the plan to purchase the entire tract of land comprising the Mall-Pennsylvania Avenue triangle is the first tangible evidence given the public that this long-awaited improvement is about to be undertaken. Senator Smoot, chairman of the commission, has announced that Congress will be asked to appropriate funds for the purchase of this site, upon which eight imposing structures to be built under the $50,000,000 Federal building program will be located.

The tentative plan, represented as being approved by all groups previously engaged in controversy over the location of certain of the buildings, provides for a new Department of Justice on Pennsylvania Avenue between Fifteenth and Fourteenth streets and the Archives building facing the Avenue between Thirteenth and Twelfth. Behind the Justice building will be located the new Department of Commerce building. Between Fourteenth and Thirteenth streets, extending south to B street, will be located the General Supply building, and the block behind this will be the future site of the Department of Labor. The independent offices of the government will be located in the block bounded by Thirteenth, C, Twelfth and B streets, the Internal Revenue building will be placed between Twelfth and Tenth and C to B streets, and the general accounting office has been allotted the area between Tenth and Ninth and C to B streets.

The public will approve the plan thoroughly, for both the Federal building program and the Mall-Avenue triangle development program are so important to the future city that their solution should not be attempted piecemeal. Furthermore, should the land necessary to carry out the plan be purchased separately, and only when plans are completed for the actual construction of that building, each new step in the development program will shoot prices for the remaining parcels of land sky high. With the approval of the fine arts commission, which undoubtedly will be forthcoming, added to the recommendation of the public buildings commission, Congress no doubt will recognize the importance of the plan and authorize sufficient funds to carry it through.

HOLIDAYS, NATIONAL AND LEGAL.

The Post has received a letter from Mr. R. H. Neff, a patient in the Walter Reed hospital, asking enlightenment on the question of national and legal holidays. W. Tyler Page, clerk of the House of Representatives, a recognized authority on the acts of Congress, was asked to answer the questions of Mr. Neff. In response Mr. Page writes:

There are no national holidays. In creating a holiday, such as Christmas day, Independence day, Labor day, &c., Congress by law made such days legal holidays within the territory over which the United States has jurisdiction, usually in the District of Columbia, the seat of government. Then, as in most instances, the States in turn following the example of Congress have severally made such days holidays within those States; and where this has been done uniformly, days so made legal holidays have come to be called "national holidays." But there are no national holidays in the strict sense of the term.

The chief legal holidays in nearly all the States and the District of Columbia are: January 1, New Year's day; February 22, Lincoln's birthday; February 22, Washington's birthday; July 4, Independence day; first Monday in September, Labor day; Thanksgiving day, usually the last Thursday in November, according to the President's proclamation; December 25, Christmas day.

May 30, Memorial day, is a legal holiday in the District of Columbia and in most of the States and Territories. But in some of the States of the South, where the custom of setting apart a memorial day originated, an earlier date is chosen because of the earlier blossoming of the flowers.

THE EXPOSITION PROJECT.

Public opinion is against a world's fair in Washington in 1932 to commemorate the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington. The public, which is able to see the seven wonders of the world in the movies, will no longer attend fairs in numbers sufficient to enable the promoters to break even. The inevitable deficit must be met from the public treasury.

A resolution has been presented to the Advertising club of Washington which will be acted upon by the board of directors tomorrow, demanding that the plan for an exposition in Washington be rejected because such fairs invariably mean losses to the business men. The club may quite possibly have been advised by the Poor Richard club, its sister organization in Philadelphia, that the business men of that city have been woefully disappointed by the small attendance at the Sesqui. It, however, need not go that far to find out what is bound to occur, for the experience of local merchants when the Shrine visited Washington in 1923 is still a vivid memory. Convention crowds, or exposition crowds, are not buying crowds, although the merchant goes to expense in laying in extra stocks against an emergency which may occur. The losses which invariably must be taken later on in disposing of these extra stocks more than eat up any extra profits.

The stand the Advertising club takes is bound to carry much weight in the final disposition of this matter. It is to be hoped that it will go on record as being opposed to a 1932 world's fair for Washington.

THE CASE OF NICARAGUA.

When Nicaragua protested last August to the league of nations against the action of Mexico in sending armed expeditions in aid of the revolutionary uprisings against the established government of Nicaragua, The Post pointed out that the Monroe doctrine would prevent any intermeddling by the league in that situation, and there has been no intermeddling by the league or by any European power.

It was not anticipated, however, that the United States would rest content with the negative results thus produced under the influence of the Monroe doctrine and permit Mexico to continue its intermeddling in Nicaragua.

The case of Nicaragua clearly comes within the so-called Roosevelt corollary to the Monroe doctrine. Several European nations belonging to the league have important interests in Nicaragua which are being jeopardized by Mexican intermeddling there, and the Mexican war, or threat of war, against Nicaragua is "a matter of concern to the whole league." The Roosevelt corollary is, in substance, that either the United States must permit other governments to take measures themselves to safeguard their own interests, "or else we must ourselves take reasonable and appropriate action." President Roosevelt said further: "Brutal wrongdoing, or impotence which results in the general loosening of the ties of civilized society, may finally require intervention by some civilized nation, and in the western hemisphere the United States cannot ignore its duty."

Now that a recognized government has been established in Nicaragua the United States should take active measures to put a stop to the "brutal wrongdoing" and "war or threat of war" by Mexico against Nicaragua. The action of Secretary Kellogg in indirectly, but nevertheless effectively, warning Mexico is indeed gratifying.

CUBA AND THE PARCELS POST.

Officials of the United States Chamber of Commerce conferred with President Coolidge on Monday for the purpose of outlining to him some legislation which, in the opinion of the chamber, should be called to the attention of Congress in the President's message. One of the points brought out has to do with the parcels post arrangements between Cuba and the United States. The present restrictions in the matter of carrying cigars and cigarettes from Cuba to this country are particularly annoying to Cuba, according to the statement made to the President, and unless those restrictions are removed the fear is expressed that Cuba will decline to continue reciprocal relations for the exchange of parcels through the mails.

The restrictions are based upon laws enacted 60 years ago which are obsolete and unnecessary today, in the opinion of the chamber. There is held to be an undue limitation of the amount of tobacco products which may be brought into this country through the mails. Inasmuch as there is no apparent good reason to fear that the customs revenues will suffer from a change in the laws defining the amounts of cigars and cigarettes which may be imported through the mails, and since through the removal of the limitation the people of Cuba may be placated, there would appear to be no good reason why Congress should not follow the suggestions of the chamber and so amend the law as to give the Postmaster General greater discretion in the premises.

SLOW DRIVERS.

Traffic Director Eldridge, in a statement made before the Board of Trade, called attention to slow drivers on Sixteenth and other light controlled streets. For many years the public has been impressed with the fact that speed is the contributing cause of practically all accidents, and this teaching can not be laid aside overnight. Nevertheless the slow driver on controlled streets and high speed arteries is a real menace, and the sooner the public awakens to that fact the better it will be for all concerned.

High speed areas are established, and streets are placed under automatic control only for the purpose of facilitating traffic. The public, especially that part of it which is in a hurry, has both the moral and legal right to make full use of the facilities provided. To safeguard such streets, however, it is made unlawful for one driver to overtake and pass another on the right. Since the slow driver invariably hugs the center of the road, it is necessary, if he is to be overtaken and passed on the left for the oncoming machine to encroach on the opposite roadway, which is also unlawful. Therefore, the public in attempting to solve the problem in its own way has adopted the lesser of the two dangers, by passing slow drivers to the right.

The situation is so trying and so potentially dangerous that unless the public can be educated to make proper use of the privilege and facilities extended other more drastic steps should be taken. If the slow driver can not be taught to keep as far to the right as possible of his own volition, legislation should be enacted establishing both minimum and maximum speed limits on certain streets, violation of either clause to be punishable by the traffic court.

EELS FOR NEW YORK.

Eels are fish which, because of the amount of oil they contain and likewise because of their close resemblance to the tempter of Eve, are not very popular as food in this section of the world, but are regarded as great delicacies in the east side of London. Eel pies, stewed eels, pickled eels and eels in various other forms might be classed as delicatessen. Eels have been even worked into English poems as one may easily ascertain by scanning the pages of Percy's Reliques.

While little is known of the fish in Washington—you never see them on the menu—they are apparently much sought after in New York, as press dispatches from Troy this week tell of the passage through the locks of that city, from the upper to the lower Hudson, of seven specially designed boats loaded with "about 175 tons of eels, valued at $140,000 to $150,000" which were on their way from Montreal to New York, where during the holiday season they will fetch 50 or 60 cents a pound. This transportation of eels down the Hudson is an annual custom of the American Eel Corporation. The boats used in the transportation of the fish are from 40 to 50 feet in length, about 8 feet beam, and so arranged that fresh water constantly passes in and out.

Gotham's gourmands will feast on bear, reindeer and buffalo meat around Thanksgiving day. While steaks are served in some of the night clubs, mussels gathered from the wharf piles are eaten in Brooklyn, and pig snouts are marketed in one section of Harlem, but just which division of the polyglot population of Manhattan will consume the 300,000 pounds of the slippery fish which arrived at Fulton market from Montreal this week is a guess. Even Commissioner O'Malley is without definite information.

INLAND WATER TRANSPORTATION.

One of the most comprehensive and thorough investigations of the transportation by the inland waterways of the United States has just been completed by the board of army engineers in cooperation with the United States Shipping Board. The investigation discloses the immense importance of this subject to producers, importers, exporters and manufacturing interests; and, because the whole country is affected, it is deemed desirable to publish the report.

Besides containing a general description of the Great Lakes and their connecting channels and harbors, the report is replete with valuable data covering the treaties, laws and regulations governing navigation. It also contains an intensive study of the movements of bulk commodities, such as coal, iron ore, building materials, and grain.

In the case of grain the report shows that during the four years 1920-1923 the average receipts at upper lake ports amounted to more than 707,000,000 bushels annually. The terminal facilities at these ports for handling bulk commodities are fully described, and much information is furnished concerning the costs of transportation, including all terminal charges, between points of origin and destination.

That the report is of more than local interest to the country immediately bordering the shores of the lakes is manifest through the tracing of the movement of coal from the mines of Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky to Lake Erie ports and thence by water to the cities of the upper lakes, whence the movements are still further shown to the States of final destination.

The report contains numerous graphs and colored flow charts showing the movement of these commodities. It is the first of a series dealing with transportation problems directly related to the functions of the War Department and the Shipping Board and will doubtless furnish the basis of plans for the betterment of inland water transportation.

ECLATON IN BRITAIN.

When individuals have been through a bad time, whether in health, finance, politics or anything else, they are easily cheered by any slight turn of the tide in their favor and welcome even small symptoms of betterment with an enthusiasm unknown to them in a brighter day. See how Thackeray revels in the fact that, after a lingering illness, he was at last able to eat and enjoy some chicken.

As it is with individuals, so is it with nations. Between unemployment, vastly increased numbers on the "dole" and in receipt of poor-law relief, and a disastrous strike, which affected injuriously not only industry and business but even the comfort of the people in their homes, the British were confronted with a situation which, for the last few months, must have seemed like a bad nightmare when contrasted with former conditions. But at last they see, or think they see, daylight. The strike, despite some open and hot-headed recalcitrancy in Scotland and Wales, is regarded as virtually at an end and business has already received great acceleration in consequence. The restrictions on the use of coal for domestic purposes and on illuminations in store windows are about to be removed. All these things, some of them small in themselves but making up an important entity in the aggregate, have produced a spirit of elation, of buoyancy, of hope for the future that is understandable in the light of the experiences of the recent past.

In addition to these manifestations of the coming of better times, three other really important events have just taken place, which seem to warrant a national joyfulness on the part of the British. One British firm has just been awarded a £2,000,000 contract for work on the floating dry dock at Singapore; another has secured an order for £1,000,000 worth of cotton machinery for Australia; and a third has been selected to enlarge the subway system in Buenos Aires, a selection which is confidently expected to create a demand for millions of pounds' worth of British railroad machinery.

These are certainly hopeful happenings and warrant to some extent the display of jubilation and optimism made in the last few days by practically every section of the British press. Should British trade recover quickly from its recent depression, the fact will assuredly deserve to be ranked among modern miracles.

It isn't probable that any man ever wrote a love story after 40 without thinking himself an ass.

The white man's chief burden are sorry whites who give him a bad reputation in alien lands.

If Henry Ford wants to be of real service to Queen Marie he might reconsider the peace ship.

It takes some experience to distinguish between a dominating personality and bad manners.

A cosmopolitan is one who realizes that table manners are a localism.

But a Good Tourist Camp.
Indianapolis Star: Considering its seeming popularity, it is almost incomprehensible that De Russy's lane boasted no barbecue stand.

Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph: If Vice President Dawes intends to do any "reforming" in the senate he had better be about it before the new one comes in.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: Scientists have found relics of a lost race in Wyoming which prove that their users were farmers. Which is, no doubt, why they lost the race.

More Words for the League.
New York Evening Post: The Chinese government is going to present the League of Nations with the complete Chinese encyclopedia, said to contain 100,000,000 words. The league ought to find peace in that assortment.

Exception Proves a Rule.
Bluffton Banner: Little brunettes out San Francisco way is 24 years of age and has just annexed her eighth husband, and not one of the former seven has been placed under the sod. Quite a fast worker—for a brunette.

Universal Vice.
New York Commercial: Dr. Geppert, Cincinnati physician, who fasted 42 days, says eating has become too much of a habit with Americans. Perhaps he's right, but why pick on this country? The vice has a number of addicts abroad.

That Double Standard.
Trenton State Gazette: It must of necessity be assumed that the young men of Cleveland who have denounced modern girls for their "drinking, swearing, smoking and immodest dress" themselves adhere religiously to the most impecable standards.

The West Meets the East.
Brooklyn Daily Eagle: A 90-year-old rebel, up in arms again in Mexico, has a price put on his head, dead or alive. The queer thing about it is that the West meets the East, and his name is Ralston, precisely that of the Moroccan self-determinationist that Roosevelt made immortal.

Legs Have Uses.
Portland Oregonian: Viscount Gray is right about the need for preserving human legs. We may not walk as much as we used to, but they are a great convenience in getting in and out of cars. The paradox is that we must walk a bit in order to make use of appliances made to obviate walking.

Begging the Question.
Philadelphia Inquirer: Answering a question as to whether "the government is doing anything to improve the status of the Indians," a man familiar with the situation replies that "during the last three years the government made 162 laws intended to improve the situation of the Indians." However, that doesn't answer the question. Not by a long shot, it doesn't.

Keep These Records.
Columbia State: The organized public, which is to say the State, should watch the growth of hydroelectric power. So far, the best, if not the only basis of rates, for its sale to consumers is net cost of investment. The net costs of these investments should be ascertained and recorded.

Beginning of Success

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE beginning of every successful life is an incentive. This incentive is variously described as ambition, a lust for power, a desire to serve, a wish to be rich, the yearning for a career.

But the true incentive is discontent. A man doesn't try to be something better than he is while he is satisfied with what he is. The yearning to be rich begins in hatred of poverty.

If these things are true, it follows that the boy who is born to wealth and has no reason to be discontented hasn't an equal chance with a similar boy who is born in poverty.

He is a very superior youngster who overcomes the handicaps of wealth and amounts to something.

There is no virtue in poverty except as poverty serves as a spur. Handicaps are good only as they develop strong men to overcome them. A hardy plant isn't an accident. It was made hardy by hardship.

Call the roll of great American's living and dead, and you will discover that nearly all of them are products of poverty or handicaps or hardship—that few had their paths strewn with roses and their food predigested.

These things are known to all fathers and yet the average father says: "I want my boy to have an easier time than I had."

It is a sentiment that does credit to his heart, but little to his head.

A boy whose way is made easy will develop into a gentleman, a useful citizen and a successful merchant or dentist or something else respectable if he has the right blood in him.

But no boy can or will develop into all that he might be if he is denied the right to struggle, to compete, to take and give hard knocks, and thus to recognize his imperfections and acquire an ambition to be something greater than he is.

This should be done carefully and continuously as the developments begin and as they enlarge.

If it shall not be done, the people will be as hopelessly confused in respect of hydroelectric power costs as they are about the costs of railroads.

The Oyster's Bed.

Baltimore Sun: The lowly oyster is not to be put upon, even by the lordly airplane. Schneider cup races, to be held off Norfolk, have caused trouble with oyster planters who object warmly to having their boundary stakes removed from the racing course. One planter has threatened to shoot. Even though the American's home may not be his castle, the oyster's bed is a four-poster, and no one shall pull the posts.

Kansas Makes Comparison.

Wichita Beacon: How big is Roumania, that Henry Ford's representative should seek reflected glory from its queen and be thrown out of the party? How big is Roumania, that so many Americans should stand on their heads and act like cuckoos about its royalty? According to the encyclopedia, Roumania contains about 48,000 square miles and about 6,000,000 people. It is a little more than half as large as the State of Kansas. Five Roumanias could be put in the State of Texas and there would be enough territory left over to make twenty Rhode Islands.

TALK OF FOOLS.

It takes work—to run our vast system of railroads, says the Oil City Derrick, with thousands of trains coming and going all timed to the exact second. It takes work—to plow, each spring and autumn, millions and millions of furrows across the United States, from New England to California; otherwise, our people would starve for lack of bread.

It takes work—for the mothers of America to make homes for our men and the children; long hard, unappreciated work, as a rule.

Especially, the "idle rich," in America, is talk of fools. The hardest worked men in this country have the largest interests at stake; and are working day and night to hold what they have and to increase what they have.

If you do not wish to pay the price in work you have little chance to rise above the condition of the toiler.

The real American, that is to say, the farmer, rancher, fisherman, miner, work side by side with those other real Americans, the bankers, the professional men, the diligent mechanics and the clerical forces throughout this great nation.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

A Dry Congress.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Democrats and Republicans alike should be interested in the following facts: In the next House of Representatives in Washington 71 per cent of the Democrats and 72 per cent of the Republicans have dry voting records or have made dry pronouncements. In the Senate 70 per cent of the Democrats and 76 per cent of the Republicans are in the same category. It looks as if the dry issue ran very evenly in both parties and certainly gives small encouragement for those who hope to run a wet President in 1928.

All this in face of the fact that the National Wet association's report filed with the Clerk of the House shows their expenditures in the recent campaign were over $275,000, while the Anti-saloon League campaign committee had less than one-tenth of that amount to spend on primaries and elections. There must be some dry sentiment in this country to land such a House and such a Senate on such a small purse.

M. L. MacLEAN.

Welsh Children in Want.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Will you please permit me, through the columns of your paper, to address an appeal to the residents of British birth in your city on behalf of the children of the miners in the Welsh coalfields?

The board of education of Rhondda has been taking care of the children from its own funds, and feeding some 18,000 of them three times per day. It has spent $175,000 on this work and is now at the end of its resources, and unless help is received from some outside agency it means that these 18,000 little children will be reduced to dire want this winter.

The need is not only for the bare necessities of food, but with the advent of cold weather shoes and warm clothing are very badly needed.

This is a matter of vital concern to every one of us Britishers and it should be a matter of pride with us to see to it that it is unnecessary for the folks at home to appeal to outsiders to help the great British empire.

The very Rev. Herbert L. Johnson, A. M. B. D., dean of St. Paul's cathedral, Detroit, Mich., will receive and acknowledge all contributions to this fund.

RUFUS J. RUGLEN.

Gems of Heaven.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Pleiades, sparkling star-gems, bespangle the darkened firmament; the beautiful Pleiades of Taurus—the seven sisters, old Atlas' children: Alcyone, Merope, Maia, Electra, Celaseno, Taygeta and Asterope.

When the golden sun Capella in the constellation Auriga ascends we behold these seven sisters near the ruddy star Aldebaran. Amid the darkened dome of evening the Pleiades resemble a shimmering haze, a small shining cloud. The brightest sun amid this shimmering haze is Alcyone, visible to many of us. Keener eyesight reveals Merope, Maia, Electra, Celaseno, Taygeta, and Asterope. And a strong opera glass brings to view twenty or more stars in the Pleiades. If we look through a large telescope, we see that this small, shining "cloud" contains at least 1,000 sun-gems; and the telescopic camera will record 2,500 or more. The sparkling Pleiades are distant trillions and trillions of miles, and at such remoteness this starry group would resemble, of course, a small, shining haze.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN

The First Civilized American

By PHILLIPS RUSSELL

DISCOVERIES of hitherto unpublished documents in London and Paris convinced Phillips Russell that Franklin was a human as well as a statesman. This resulting work radiates an abundance of surprisingly unconventional anecdotes, plus a totally new exposition of Franklin philosophy. For all its unexpected revelation, an intensely valuable, accurate biography, with as vividly narrative interest as it has history.

CAPITAL SOCIETY EVENTS

SENATOR WILLIAM M. BUTLER, who was the guest of the President and Mrs. Coolidge for several days, departed yesterday.

The Ambassador of Mexico and Senora Teller were the ranking guests at dinner last evening given by Mr. Fred K. Nielsen, the American commissioner in the American-Mexican arbitration, who entertained in the Presidential suite of the Willard, other guests being: The Minister of Guatemala, and Senora Latour, the Netherlands charge d'affaires Jonker Dr. H. van Asch van Wyck; Dr. C. van Vollenhoven, presiding commissioner in the American-Mexican arbitration; Judge Edwin B. Parker, umpire of the American-German claims commission, and Mrs. Parker; Dr. G. Fernandez MacGregor, Mexican commissioner in the American-Mexican arbitration, and Mrs. MacGregor; the Assistant Secretary of State Robert E. Olds and Mrs. Olds; Dr. B. New way provides true security—discards like tissue OLD-TIME sanitary methods bring unhappy, fretful days. Now the insecurity of the hazardous "sanitary pads" has been ended.

You wear sheerest gowns, meet every and all social or business exacting demands in peace of mind... any time, any day.

It is called "KOTEX"... five times as absorbent as the ordinary cotton pad!

Thoroughly odorless... thus ending ALL fear of offending.

Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You ask for it without hesitancy simply by saying "KOTEX" at any drug or department store. Costs only a few cents. Proves old ways an unnecessary risk.

Bailly-De Moll Wedding.

The wedding of Miss Leah Isabel De Moll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Joseph De Moll, to Lieut. Frederick Rogers, Bailly, United States coast guard, son of Mr. Mary Bailly, of the Balfour apartment, took place last evening at 8 o'clock, the Rev. Herbert Scott officiating. The church was decorated with white chrysanthemums, and Miss Hood played the nuptial music.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and she carried yellow chrysanthemums. The bridesmaids were Miss Prudence Wilson, of New York; Miss Virginia Herron, Miss Helen West and Miss Elizabeth Bailly. They wore gowns like that of the maid of honor, in lighter shades, and they also carried yellow chrysanthemums. The two younger sisters of the bride were flower girls, Miss Betty De Moll and Miss Peggy De Moll. They were dressed in white and carried bouquets of yellow roses.

Lieut. L. H. Baker of the United States coast guard, was best man and the ushers were Ensign John Rountree, Lieut. Marron, of the coast guard; Lieut. Conrad, of the U. S. N., and Lieut. A. G. Hall, U. S. coast guard.

A reception followed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. De Moll, 2908 Thirtieth street. Mrs. De Moll, mother of the bride, wore a gown of black sequins made over cloth of gold, and carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

Later Lieut. and Mrs. Bailly departed for a wedding trip, the latter wearing a dress of channel red velvet and georgette, with a coat to match trimmed with caracul fur. They will make their home in New London, Conn.

Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Louis Phipps, Anglemood, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Don Hibbard, Philadelphia; Miss Janan, Philadelphia, and Mrs. C. E. Claire, New York city.

MARIE OF ROUMANIA, HERE ON WEDNESDAY, TO BE WIDELY FETED

Dinner for Queen and Dance
for Her Children Planned
by Two Hostesses.

BRITISH AND ITALIAN
ENVOYS WILL ENTERTAIN

Reception Will Be Given at Legation for Limited Number of Guests.

Queen Marie of Roumania and her party, returning to Washington for a three-day visit Wednesday, will be feted by the diplomatic corps and two of the city's most prominent hostesses, it was learned yesterday.

Plans for the royal party's second reception here call for a dinner to her majesty on Tuesday and a tea dance for Prince Nicolas and Princess Ileana at the home of another. Names of the two hostesses are being withheld until the plans have been formally approved. It is planned to have a reception at the Rumanian legation, invitations to which, aside from the diplomatic set, will be limited because of the lack of room. The British and Italian embassies are also to entertain, according to present plans.

Luncheon at Seminary.
The royal party will reach here at 9:45 o'clock over the Baltimore & Ohio from Pittsburgh. It has been definitely determined that she will have luncheon that day at the National Park seminary. This will be Marie's first opportunity to see one of the country's fashionable girls' schools. She accepted an invitation extended by Col. L. G. Ament, a friend, on behalf of his cousin, Dr. J. E. Ament, president of the school. Aside from the more formal affairs arranged for the party, several more or less informal engagements have been tentatively made. Prince Nicolas is expected to visit the Y. M. C. A. while Princess Ileana is to be thrown with the Girl Scouts, according to present plans.

In this way, the second visit of the royal party will be unlike that of the first when her majesty and children remained together. At that time, however, they were here to make an official call on the President and Mrs. Coolidge.

This time, separate programs have been arranged for the queen, prince and princess, although the three will be together at the formal functions.

Will See Football Game.
Prince Nicolas and Princess Ileana are to leave here Friday, November 26, for the Army-Navy football game in Chicago, according to present plans, and her majesty is expected to leave early the following day for Atlantic City. The party will get together again at White Sulphur Springs, Va., and it is from there that the contemplated Southern trip is to start.

The extent of this trip, however, remains in doubt, for Marie, curtailing

Lais and Commander Silvio Scaroni. Later the special program "Midnight in Granada" at the Carlton club.

Mr. and Mrs. George T. Marry, accompanied by Mrs. W. B. Thomas and Mrs. F. I. Doyle, arrived yesterday morning at the Mayflower while their house is being put in order.

Mrs. J. N. B. Hughes has taken an apartment at the Hotel Martineau for the winter.

Capt. and Mrs. Joseph R. Darnall and daughter are the guests of Capt. Darnall's parents, Col. and Mrs. C. R. Darnall, 1816 Lamont street northwest. Capt. Darnall has recently been on duty at Camp Benning, Ga., and is under orders to sail from New York for duty in the Philippine Islands, December 22. They will remain with Col. and Mrs. Darnall until they sail.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hansel, of Crawford, N. J., are at the Wardman Park hotel for an extended stay.

Junior League Meets.

The first fall business meeting of the Washington Junior League was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Chandler Hale, 1335 L street. Miss Helen Townsley, vice president, presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. Chauncey Parker, jr. The meeting was followed by a tea which was attended by about 200 girls.

Sir William Mackenzie, of London, head of the British government delegation investigating industrial relations in this country, has been at the Wardman Park hotel for several days, departed yesterday for a short trip through the South. He will return Saturday and will be joined at the Wardman Park hotel by the other members of the delegation.

Mrs. Frederick H. Brooks entertained at tea Tuesday afternoon for the board of directors of the Girl Scouts. There were about 50 guests. Mrs. Henry Plummer and other members of the Washington council of the Girl Scouts entertained the board of directors at luncheon Tuesday at the Girl Scout coed house in F street.

Important group in the tableaux to be given at the ball and pageant, December 7 at the Mayflower, for the benefit of the Washington council of the Girl Scouts, will be in charge of Miss Claire Holliman and Miss Ellen Wise Grenshaw.

Card Party Committees.

Arrangements are being completed for the card party to be given by the Sodality of St. Matthew's church at the Mayflower tomorrow evening. The committees in charge are:

Prizes and tickets—Mrs. J. Hauber, Mrs. Fred May, Miss Rose Kelly, Miss Mary Ryan, Mrs. Mary Man, Miss Philomena Joyce, floor committee—Miss K. Griffin, the Misses Burke, Miss C. Carmody, Miss D. C. her trip in order to get home before Christmas, now plans to leave New York December 11, instead of December 14, as announced a few days ago. If she returns to Washington at all on her return north, it is not believed that she will have time to stop.

Mme. Loie Fuller, the dancer and friend of her majesty, about whom there has been considerable controversy among her party, plans to sail for Europe tomorrow.

R. T. Elliott Weds Bedford, Va., Girl

Miss Gladys Berry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wallace Berry, of Bedford, Va., was married Tuesday morning to Randall Taylor Elliott, son of Dr. and Mrs. Henry Randall Elliott, 3315 Garfield street northwest, in St. John's church in Bedford, according to word received here yesterday.

Mr. Elliott is an attorney, and his law partner, Henning Neime, was best man. Donald Chamberlin, head of the Chamberlin Construction Co., was present, as were Marshall Lynn, Herbert Flynn and Bernard Luckett, of Washington. Mr. and Mrs. Elliott are expected to return to Washington from their honeymoon December 1, and will make their home with Dr. and Mrs. Elliott. Miss Edmonia Berry, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor at the wedding ceremony, performed by the Rev. W. A. Pearman.

Dreadnaughts Sink Pacific 'Enemy' Fleet

San Pedro, Calif. Nov. 17 (By A. P.)—An imaginary fleet of enemy destroyers was wiped out by four dreadnaughts of the United States battle fleet off San Pedro in night battle practice firing. The gunners fired from darkened ships, using star shells sent up with parachutes as the only illumination. The 8-inch batteries from ships completely destroyed towed targets at 5,000 yards.

Beauty Plus Personality

Records of accomplishment and promises of fame and fortune are written in the exquisite face of Thelma Todd of Boston—and in the sparkle of her vivid personality! She is one of the sweet girl graduates of Paramount's first School of Screen Acting, a star in "Fascinating Youth," and a symbol of everything that two words mean.

Asked how she keeps her complexion so "divinely fair," Miss Todd says: "I promise myself—and keep the promise—never to miss a day using the velvety Black and White Cold Creams, which cleanse, soften and nourishes my skin, preventing wrinkles, plumping out hollows and giving my skin the fine, soft texture of a baby's."

Beautiful women all over America show their appreciation of the supreme quality and low 50c and 25c prices of the Black and White Beauty Creations by using more than 15 million packages a year.

NIGHT OF BARRIE GIVEN BY GEORGETOWN U. CLUB

Mrs. Coolidge Heads Patrons and Patronesses at Presentation of Plays.

TWO RECEIVE AWARDS

"A Night of Barrie" was presented by the Mask and Bauble club of Georgetown university last night in Trinity Parish hall.

Mrs. Calvin Coolidge headed a list of 82 patrons and patronesses. Three one-act plays of James M. Barrie constituted the offering. They were "The New Word," "The Will" and "The Twelve-Pound Look." The casts for the three plays were:

"The New Word"—Joseph Mullen, '28, as Mr. Torrance; John Leiger, '28, Mrs. Torrance; Joseph Gardner, '30, Emily, and William Walker, '30, Rodger.

"The Will"—William O'Neill, '28, Mr. Devizes; Philip Cahill, '28, Surtess; Robert Christie, '28, Robert; Al Philip Cane, '28, Mr. Ross; Deane Benson, '28, Mrs. Ross; and John O'Reilly, jr., '28, Sennet and Creed.

"The Twelve-Pound Look"—Francis Moran, '28, Sir Harry; John Laughlin, '27, Lady Sims; Paul Lynde, '28, Kate, and William Ward, '28, Tombs. W. H. Landvoigt, dramatic critic of the Evening Star, was chairman of a committee to pass on the character portrayal by members of the casts. Others on the committee were John J. Dally, Washington Post; Leonard Hall, Washington News; and Harold Phillips, Washington Times-Herald.

Prizes were awarded to John Leiger and Philip Cahill.

George Sterling, Poet, Held to Be a Suicide

San Francisco, Nov. 17 (By A. P.)—George Sterling, nationally known poet, was found dead in his bed at a club here today, under circumstances which led the coroner's office to express the opinion that he had ended his life by drinking poison.

A partly filled bottle was found near the bed. An official verdict was withheld pending a post-mortem examination.

FACTS
This is one of the reasons why there are more Frigidaires in use than all other electric refrigerators combined. Additional reasons are covered in other advertisements.

Note how the overlapping front of the Frigidaire freezing tray completely covers the opening in the freezing compartment, providing a seal which assures lower inside temperatures and quicker freezing.

ONE reason for Frigidaire's overwhelming popularity is the fact that it freezes more ice, by actual weight, than other electric refrigerators of the same size.

The Frigidaire freezing trays are self-sealing. The white enameled fronts of the ice trays completely overlap the tray openings, thus sealing the intense cold of the frost coil within the freezing compartment. Frigidaire freezes ice quickly and solidly, regardless of room temperatures.

Long ago, Frigidaire discarded the brine tank in favor of the more efficient frost coil. The frost coil assures simpler, quicker temperature control, which is so accurate and stable that it never has to be adjusted once it has been properly set.

Frigidaire is superior in ice-freezing capacity, food storage space, low operating cost and quiet operation. Frigidaire offers unequalled sturdiness of construction and beauty of design. Frigidaire offers a permanent and thoroughly trained and established service organization. It is the only electric refrigerator guaranteed by General Motors.

THEATER AIR AND MILK
INSPECTION IS STARTED

Fowler Begins Cleanup on Inferior Service in Playhouses and Restaurants.

RESULT OF COMPLAINTS

Inspection cruises against foul air
in theaters and serving of inferior milk
in lunch rooms and restaurants were began simultaneously yesterday by order of Dr. William C. Fowler, District health officer.

In both cases it has been about three years since such intensive drives as the present have been conducted. Dr. Fowler said he was not so much interested in prosecuting people as in causing an improvement of conditions.

In the case of theaters, including motion picture houses, the first phase of the campaign will be to ascertain whether effective use is made currently of ventilating apparatus. Theaters are required to have. Samples of air will be taken for analysis later, after it has been established whether ventilation machinery is in constant operation.

Inspectors were instructed to take samples of milk being served in all public eating houses and examine them
both as to purity and food content.

"The theaters have the required apparatus to furnish patrons with pure air," said Dr. Fowler, "and restaurant proprietors are cognizant of official requirements as to milk standards. There is no excuse for inferior service in either case. This department has received complaints from time to time and has made numerous inspections. But the present activity is in the nature of a complete clean-up of the city,
as to milk in restaurants and air in theaters."

WASHINGTON PIANIST CUT BY SERVANT IN CHINA

Frieda Frommel Slashed as She Fights Off Robber, Armed With Knife.

Shanghai, Nov. 17 (By A. P.).—Miss Frieda Frommel, director of the music department of the Shanghai American school, and one of the leading pianists of the Far East, was wounded so that she may not be able to play the piano again, by a former houseboy in an attempt to rob her.

Miss Frommel, who before coming to Shanghai, directed music in a school in Washington, was alone in her house about midnight Tuesday, when a former houseboy whom she had dismissed a fortnight ago, entered. He demanded $200. She told him to get her purse and while he was doing so she rang for the servants. Seeing her press the button, the intruder attacked her with a knife, which she caught in her bare hand to defend herself. It was pulled from her grasp, slashing her fingers.

Before the arrival of servants, whose approach frightened away her assailant, Miss Frommel received a cut at the base of her neck, two in the back, one across the wrist and one on her chest, and still another across her knee. She was taken to a hospital for treatment. There is no danger that she will not recover, it was stated, but the injury to her hand may permanently handicap her in her musical career.

Miss Victoria Elliott, of the University of Arizona, one of the co-eds of the university ship Ryndam, was robbed of $200 by a ricksha coolie while returning to the ship last night. The robbery followed an argument with the coolie over the fare.

Rev. H. A. Tupper
Suffers Stroke Here

Suffering a paralytic stroke while at the Merchants Bank & Trust Co., Southern building, yesterday morning, the Rev. Henry Allen Tupper, 55 years old, of Philadelphia, was taken to Casualty hospital for treatment.

The Rev. Dr. Tupper was formerly pastor of the First Baptist church, Sixteenth and O streets northwest. His condition was reported considerably improved last night. After emergency treatment at the hospital by Dr. Hand, Dr. Ernest Mitchell, personal physician, was summoned.

Final Effort to Halt
St. Paul Sale Fails

Chicago, Nov. 17 (By A. P.).—An eleventh-hour attempt to postpone the foreclosure sale of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad at Butte, Mont., next Monday, failed today when Federal Judge Wilkerson refused to enter an immediate order allowing an appeal from his order of sale.

LONGER SCHOOL DAY IS BANNED BY BOARD

to name schools after educators, commissioners and national characters. There will be another discussion of the matter at the next spring meeting of the board.

The board voted to permit Mrs. Ottilie Young, teacher of history at Central High school, to continue in the service until June 30, 1927. Mrs. Young will be 70 years of age February 12 next, and under the law she should resign at that time. Henry Gilligan, a member of the board, explained that Mrs. Young was a remarkable woman and still possessed considerable energy. It was evident, however, that the board would not grant any extensions after June 30.

The board decided that its rules concerning nonresident pupils should be suspended until the status of some 75 pupils can be determined. Under the rules, these pupils would have to leave school unless they paid tuition. The parents of 50 of them have agreed to pay but at the same time have appealed in the courts. The board will turn over to the District commissioners all papers in the matter and will ask the commissioners for an opinion to guide it.

Dr. Ballou was authorized to appoint principals for the Stuart and Francis Junior high schools and to accept the offer of scholarships to the Central and McKinley high schools made by Louis P. Bliss, president of the Bliss Electrical school. Dr. Ballou also was authorized to attend the convention of the department of superintendence of the National Education association at Dallas, Tex., in February, and to grant permission to other school officers who want to attend and who can be spared.

Appointment of the following teachers was approved: Miss Myrtle Yost, health school; Miss C. V. Ware, ungraded school; L. E. Proctor, Miner normal school; D. C. Brent, junior high school; L. T. Green, vocational school. Applications for organizations to organize in local high schools were approved. They were Phi Pi Epsilon society, Eastern, and Pharos society, McKinley.

Henry Gilligan, chairman of the board's legislative committee, urged that several bills be submitted to Congress at the forthcoming session, providing as follows: That teachers be granted one year's leave of absence every seven years, that free textbooks be provided all children in the public schools here, a straightening out of the present tangle in the matter of salaries for 20 teachers in the junior high schools and removal of the $2,000 salary limitation that now is imposed on teachers in the night schools.

He also outlined Dr. Ballou's proposal for a second five-year school-building program after the present program is completed, in 1930. The board adopted all of his recommendations.

Bleese Offers Aid
In Lynching Suits

(By the Associated Press.)

Senator Bleese, of South Carolina, said last night that he had offered, without charge, to defend Alken county, South Carolina, against any damage suits brought by families of the three Lowman negroes lynched there about a month ago by a mob who stormed the county jail.

The offer, made in a letter to Col. D. W. Glaston, of Alken, S. C., was predicated, the senator said, upon a desire to help Alken county in any way he could. It should not, he added, be interpreted as in any way involving him with the moral question connected with the lynchings.

Allen Upward, Writer,
Is Dead by Bullet

London, Nov. 17 (By A. P.).—Allen Upward, well-known English barrister and author, is reported by the Daily Express to have been found shot through the heart at his residence in Verwood, near Wimborne.

Only a few weeks ago a novel written by him appeared. This was written at the request of his publishers after his novel "The Domino Club" was pronounced a success. Notwithstanding the praise bestowed on "The Domino Club" and demands for film and dramatic rights, Upward decided that he had failed.

Army and Navy Union Ball Plans Discussed

Plans for a grand ball at the City club January 17, under the auspices of the Army and Navy union, assisted by the other veterans' organizations, were inaugurated at the meeting of the Army and Navy union in the City club last night. The proceeds of the ball will be in benefit of the annual convention of the Army and Navy union in Washington next September.

John M. Watts expressed the hope that the veterans would combine into one union and have a united commission to go before Congress and present the needs of the veterans. The committee on the ball was appointed, with Charles W. Freeman, chairman. Another meeting will be held November 26.

OFFICERS REELECTED BY ARCHEOLOGISTS

Observing the twenty-fifth anniversary of its founding, the Archeological Society of Washington met last night at the home of its president, Robert Lansing, former Secretary of State, 1823 Eighteenth street northwest. The society was founded at the Eighteenth street address in 1901.

Prof. Charles Upson Clark delivered an illustrated lecture on "Transylvania, the Heart of Ancient Bacia." Mrs. Mitchell Carroll, outlined the history of the club. Guests of honor included Donna Antonietta de Martino and Count Macchi di Cellere, of the Italian legation; the Minister of Sweden and Mme. Bostrum, and the Minister of Roumania and Mile. Cezianu.

Officers of the society were reelected with the exception of trustees, to which office Nell M. Judd and Henry Parsons Erwin were elected. Dr. Sylvanus G. Morley will lecture on middle American archeology at a meeting of the society in the Pan-American building.

BAPTISTS ARE TOLD OF ORIENT MISSIONS

Columbia Association Has Its Annual Meeting in the National Memorial.

The work of missionaries in the Orient was described yesterday by delegates to the Columbia Association of Baptist Churches, holding the third session of their annual meeting in the National Baptist Memorial church, Sixteenth street and Columbia road northwest.

Reports were given by Mrs. Henry Sheriff, who spoke on "Christian Americanization." Mrs. Charles W. Johnson, who talked on "Personal Service," Mrs. Frank Brown, who told of White Cross activities; Mrs. W. E. Mooney, whose topic was "Stewardship;" Miss Gladys Henderson, who described the literature employed by the organization, and Miss Nellie Savage, whose subject was "Missionary Education."

Mrs. H. A. Emore informed delegates of the reading contest held by the association, and young women's work was described by Miss Helen Hudson. Children's work was portrayed by Miss Alice Meyers, and the efforts of Baptist training schools was explained by Mrs. H. W. O. Millington. Devotional services were led by the Rev. J. C. Ball and a brief prayer by the Rev. W. J. Hubbard. At the morning session the wife of the Rev. Gov. G. Johnson, pastor of the National Baptist Memorial church, was in charge of devotional exercises.

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT, BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

Buick Thermostatic Control provides smooth Engine Performance at 0° or 90° in the shade

Thermostatic Circulation Control is a new reason why the Buick engine is so easy to start and so pleasant to drive, in all kinds of weather.

Summer conditions prevail all year, under the Buick hood. At 90°, or at zero, this valuable Buick improvement reduces the warming-up period to less than three minutes!

No water circulates through the Buick radiator until 120° Fahrenheit, the best operating temperature, is reached.

Then a valve automatically opens and circulation starts.

But the valve snaps shut, circulation quits, if for any reason the temperature drops below 120°. Engine heat is thus stored for quick starting on cold days.

For this, and many other vital reasons, the 1927 Buick is the Greatest Ever Built. The engine is vibrationless beyond belief. Drive it and see what that means.

SECOND LOVE

By MALCOLM DUART.
(Copyright, 1926, Eugene MacLean.)

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.
Marcie Allen, young, lovely and lively, has been vigorously making love to her friend's husband, John Parrish, and to his father-in-law, Harry Morton, wealthy widower. Parrish has left Marcie, his rich wife, because of the trouble that usually follows the marriage of poor men and rich girls. Parrish begins to be interested, and talks of marrying Marcie if Audrey divorces him. Marcie laughs at her wedding, and tells John, Nona, celebrated dancer, in love with Morton, comes to visit Audrey, after triumph in London. Marcie tells Nona, in confidence, that she (Marcie) and Morton have been secretly married, and as the last chapter ends, demands that Nona give her a $5,000 pin that Morton had given to the dancer the year before.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.
(Names and situations in this story are fictitious.)

CHAPTER XL.

NONA crossed one little leg over the other, and leaned back in her chair.

"This," she said, "is getting to be a nuisance. I won't give you my pin."

"It isn't your pin—it rightly belongs to me," Marcie declared. "It was bought with my husband's money. You have no business wearing his gifts, now."

Nona shrugged her shoulders. "There's only one thing to do, suppose. There was a pause before she went on. 'We'll leave the question to Mr. Norton.'"

"We can't do that," cried Marcie, quickly.

Nona waited for her to continue. "He'd know that I'd blabbed about our marriage," Marcie concluded.

"In that case," Nona replied dryly, "we'll wait until your nuptials are announced before we transfer the pin."

Turning her head, she rested her cheek against the back of the chair. Marcie stood for a moment, doubtful as to her next move, and then swung on her heel and left the room.

As she reached the hallway, she saw Morton going into his study. She followed after him, half clove the door behind her.

"This is the first chance we've had to be alone together in—months, almost," she began.

He motioned toward a chair. "Feel like a little midnight chat?" he inquired.

"I like you," she said, seating herself. Looking at him out of the corners of her eyes, she proceeded.

"Harry?"

"Yes?" He had settled back in his revolving chair.

"Do you like me as well as you do Nona?"

Morton took out his pipe, filled and lighted it before he answered. "Suppose," he said, "that we award the prize a little later on, in this contest between you and Nona. Wouldn't it make things more interesting?"

Marcie pouted. "You're just playing a game with me," she charged.

"And what," he demanded, "are you playing with me?"

"But mine is a woman's game, and it's legitimate," she exclaimed. "It's a woman's business to get a mate, and all she expects from the man is that he be sincere."

"Do you mean," Morton asked, smiling, "that it's all right for a woman to tease a man, and irritate him, and talk about him to her friends, and do all that sort of thing, but it isn't right for a man to amuse himself flirting with her?"

"Absolutely," she cried. "Men have so many other things to interest them, and women have only men. It's up to the men to stand for the things we do."

"But how about John—when you weren't looking for a mate when you flirted with him, were you?"

Marcie dragged her chair nearer. "Of course not. That was just practice—I told him so myself."

She was leaning with her elbows on his desk now. "Harry," she said.

"Well?"

"You know that pin you gave Nona?" she went on. He nodded.

"She wanted to give that to me," Marcie stated.

Morton lifted his eyebrows. "But I told her it was your gift, and she ought to cherish it," Marcie was warning up to her subject.

"She asked me, of course, not to say anything about it to you."

The man relighted his pipe, surveying the girl with deep interest.

"She said—she said she didn't care so much about you as she used to, after meeting so many titled men abroad," Marcie continued, her wide eyes fixed on Morton.

"She wouldn't want to tell you so, of course," He nodded, attentively. "And she said she saw how much I care for you, and wanted me to have the pin as a souvenir. That was all in strict confidence, just between girls, you understand."

She drew her chair forward again, until she was beside Morton. "But I couldn't take a gift from you, second-hand, that way. I couldn't, could I?"

He shook his head, in agreement. "And I wondered—I wondered if you—if you wouldn't like to give me, yourself." She stopped and waited.

Morton spoke at last. "You wondered if I wouldn't give you a nice little gift of your own. Is that it?"

She assented eagerly. "I'd love to have something of yours—even if it came from the ten-cent store."

Taking his hand, she twined her fingers in his.

With his other hand, Morton rubbed his chin. "Let me see—it might be arranged. Wait."

He arose, deposited her hand in her lap, and went out the door. She could hear him mounting the stairs. Several minutes later he returned.

Standing before her, he extended his hand, in which reposed a tiny jeweler's box.

"Here," he said, "is something I bought in London, just before I sailed. I had intended to give it to—somebody else. But when I got here I found it—and—"

He paused suggestively. Marcie pressed her palms together.

"Did you save it for me? Did you actually, truly think of giving it to me, after you met me?"

Her voice rang with sheer delight. The man silently offered the box, and she took it and opened it.

There was a flash of tiny diamonds in platinum, and the steady, cold gleam of a great flat sapphire in the center.

"A ring!" she gasped. "A gorgeous ring!" She slipped it onto the third finger of her right hand, and it fitted. With a cry she sprang up and held her arms around his neck. "Harry—Harry, sweetheart!"

He almost wept. Then she kissed him.

Holding her hand before her, so the light would fall upon the platinum circlet, she moved so she could see the sapphire.

"Sit down," she said, abruptly. "He did not move, but looked at her."

"Sit down—I want to sit on your lap," she commanded. Putting her hands on his shoulders, she pushed, but he resisted, laughing a little.

"Too many people still awake in this house for necking," he said. "Audrey may come in, or Nona, or—"

"What do we care if they see us?" Marcie inquired. "Please sit down. We can shut the door."

She was still thrusting at his shoulders, and he took her wrists in his hands.

"You forget that I am the parent of a young and interesting daughter," he said. "I must conduct myself with propriety in her house."

"Pooh—she's done such things herself, I'll bet," Marcie countered. He was holding her arms at her sides. "Let go—I want to see my pretty ring."

He complied, and she admitted the gems again. "You're awfully cold, and sure of yourself—but you wouldn't have saved this for me if you hadn't been interested. And I believe you did save it for me, too."

She leaned her shoulder against his. "I wish I hadn't asked you for a gift, now," she added, looking up into his face. "I wish I'd waited for you to give it to me."

Swiftly, she kissed him again, and ran out into the hall.

"Good-night," she breathed, and hurried up the stairs.

At Audrey's bedroom door she listened a moment. The sound of running water came from the bathroom within, indicating that the occupant was preparing for bed. Then she sped to her own room, and pulled the door to, so only a crack was open. There she waited until she heard Morton's leisurely steps ascend the stairs, and turn down the corridor.

There was the sound of his door closing. Marcie softly reentered the hall, and thumbed to Nona's room. She tried the knob, but the door was locked. She rapped gently. There was no response.

She stopped and thought. Any louder noise might bring Morton, or Audrey, into the hall. Nona's bedroom was beyond the dressing room, and did not open into the passageway. She had been gone long enough to be in bed.

As a last resort, Marcie scratched upon the panel. The resultant sound was so loud that she started, and looked around in alarm. The passageway remained quiet, however, and she scratched again.

A step sounded within and the door-catch rattled. Nona appeared, a light silk robe over her night dress.

"What in the world?" she began.

To Use Up Several Blouses.

WHO has a boxful of old blouses, too short for the present mode, yet too good to throw away? Then here's the kind of dress one may make easily to wear over several of them in turn, for the detachable vest, one of the most practical means of achieving the contrast the season demands.

Suppose one blouse is white. It may be dyed a lightest green and worn with a frock in bottle-green wool crepe—a frock that would also look well with beige muslin if the little hat in the sketch were in beige, banded with green. Brown calf shoes with a high all-leather heel, beige stockings and plain beige suede pull-on gloves would complete a costume thoroughly useful for morning wear, for shopping, motor, business or the country.

We asked the woman who made this dress what the points to be watched were if one wished to duplicate her success, and this is what she said:

"Be sure to adjust the skirt length and finish the hem before laying in the pleats. Press, then join the upper front portion. The hem may be bound or pinked and catenched to the frock. Always stitch hems by hand. The deep V neckline which may be purchased at the notion department in almost any color. Across the back of the frock are two narrow belts that button to the wide band, and this gives the snug-fitting hipline without which no dress looks right this season."

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES McDONALD

The Modern Male.

MY DEAR MISS McDONALD: Will you kindly give me your opinion in the following matter: I keep house for my father, sister and brother. I am friendly with a young man in my city. The trouble is this: He comes up to the city about once a month and expects to stay at my home. My family objects to this as I have to do all the work, and they don't like him around and me waiting on him. They say he must be here after to a hotel and just call to see me or take me out. He wrote me that he was coming up on business for a week and would stay at our home and we could have good time together. But my father made me write and tell him it was inconvenient for us to have him except over the week end. I hope you understand my position and will please tell me just what is the proper thing to do. Just give me your answer, as I have no one to tell me just the thing to do and how to explain it to this young man without offending him. My family think he has a terrible nerve, as he is not an accepted lover—nor has he ever offered himself. I hardly know whether to agree with my family or not. What do you think?

TESSA.

I think exactly as your family thinks! The man has vast audacity to use your home as a hotel. And you need not be overcautious about hurting his tender feelings! He reminds me of a man I once heard of who went to a different summer resort each year and became acquainted with some family of residents where marriageable daughters made a presentable man welcome. After three or four years his vacations were spent economically at these hospitable homes, where good food was, and comfort supplied, and a car at hand, and a pretty girl always at elbow. The scheme was flawless and he has been working it for over ten years—each family believing absolutely that "some" day he will "speak." And half a dozen different girls wondering "why he never commits himself."

This incident is not given here as a timely suggestion to impecunious and unprincipled dance-hounds in search of free board. It is given as a warning to girls in general and always at elbow. The scheme was flawless and he has been working it for over ten years—each family believing absolutely that "some" day he will "speak." And half a dozen different girls wondering "why he never commits himself."

"Look!" she said, holding out her right hand. The little diamonds surrounding the sapphire blinked and sparkled.

"I just wanted you to know," she waited while Nona silently took the finger that bore the ring, and inspected it. "Harry gave me that tonight—he couldn't give me a solitaire and the wedding ring, of course, until our marriage is announced, but he gave me this instead!"

Mr. Work's Pointer On Auction Bridge

(Milton C. Work, the international authority, will answer your auction bridge questions. A stamped, self-addressed envelope must accompany each request for replies.)

ON the first three days of this week our pointers related to initial bids of no trump; a summary made be stated as follows:

A dealer (or a second hand, dealer having passed) has the requisite strength for a no trump when he has high-card strength above the average three suits stopped and at least two cards in his shortest suit. But there are many hands amply strong enough to bid a no trump—hands with much more strength than the most conservative would require—which are nevertheless unsound no trump bids because they are better suited bids. To illustrate with an extreme example: Spades: Ace-king-queen-jack-10. Hearts: Ace-king-queen. Diamonds: Ace-king-queen. Clubs: Queen-jack. This hand has three suits stopped; has two aces, two kings, three queens and one jack above the average; has a high-card count of thirty-one (eleven being the minimum requirement); has two cards and considerable strength in his shortest suit; but in spite of all that, only a no trump would give up a sure game in spades with 100 assured honors for a possible game in no trump (the making of which would probably depend upon the partner's holding the ace or king or the 10-x-x in clubs) with an assured 30 and a possible 40 for honors. In this extreme case the situation is apparent; but with hands somewhat weaker, the arguments in favor of the suit-bid may be just as valid, although not as self-evident. For example, the hand given yesterday.

Spades: Ace-queen-10. Hearts: Ace-queen-jack-x-x. Diamonds: Ace-king. Clubs: x-x-x. Fully qualifies for a no trump, meeting all the requirements given in the three preceding articles, but a no trump bid would be most unwise because hearts is so much safer; game with that suit the trump being much more probable. Another very unusual type of hand which calls for a suit-bid rather than no trump is:

Spades: King-jack-x-x-x. Hearts: Ace-x. Diamonds: Ace-queen-jack. Clubs: x-x-x.

The above described system of selecting a major suit in preference to a no trump is not advisable with a partner who does not understand major-suit play, but with a partner up to date in that respect, it is a winner. The most important topic—denials—will soon be discussed in this series of articles.

Our pointer for today is:

When the hand contains an un-stopped suit do not bid a no trump if you have a biddable five-card major. The following question will be answered tomorrow:

South bids one spade and obtains the contract; what should West lead from this hand:

Spades: Jack-x-xx-x. Hearts: Queen-jack-ten-x. Diamonds: King-x-x-x. Clubs: Jack?

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

ACIDIFIED MILK FOR BABIES.

A CERTAIN number of babies are benefited by taking acid milk. In a crude sort of way this fact has been known for a long time.

Our grandmothers knew that some babies thrived on buttermilk and others on sour milk. The milk of old days was redolent with the lactic acid of bacteria which were old-fashioned physicians who found that some babies suffering from malnutrition began to thrive if some orange juice was added to the milk. The milk and orange juice were not given at separate hours, or even separately. They were mixed in the bottle before being fed to the baby.

In time, physicians began to choose between a number of acids. In addition to the lactic acid in buttermilk, they used cottage cheese, clabber and soured milk. They used orange and lemon juices, vinegar, acetic acid and hydrochloric acid.

Dr. Faber found that while the average baby did not need to drink acid milk, some babies did not thrive until some form of acid was used. The Chicago Infant Welfare society confirmed the opinion of Faber in their feeding of a very large number of babies.

Dr. B. S. Dunham has recently reported his success in adding standard acetic acid to babies' milk. He was led to use it instead of vinegar because he found considerable variance in the acid strength of even good vinegars. He used U. S. F. acetic acid, adding 1 drachm to each 16 ounces of milk. In household practice he added one or two half even teaspoons of acid to each quart of milk. For the purpose he used an ordinary average-sized spoon, and he dipped the acid with a spoon he is reasonably certain to overfill it.

He first sterilized the milk by heating it.

heating it. Then he added the acid. The milk was slightly warmed before it was fed to the child. Milk made acid in this way is creamy and in fine curds. The babies liked it and those to whom it was fed thrived on it. It was especially valuable in feeding babies who were suffering from malnutrition and who had been getting cow's milk.

It was fed every four hours. When the baby had passed ten months of age the amount of acid milk used was gradually reduced and at a year of age it was discontinued.

One ounce of corn sirup diluted with one ounce of water was added to each pint of milk. Cereals were begun at three months and vegetable mash at five months. If the baby was constipated the proportion of sirup, cereal or vegetable mash was increased.

If the baby being fed is less than two months of age the milk must be properly diluted as well as acidified.

WORKING HOURS TOO LONG.

Anxious writes: Due to the position I hold, I find it difficult to route my day. I work outdoors. I start to work at 4 p. m. and work until 4 a. m. By the time I get home and to bed it is 8 a. m. I then sleep until 2 p. m. and start off to work again.

I eat breakfast at 2 p. m., supper at 9 p. m., and eat once again at 3 a. m. Do you think this mode of living can do me any harm? I am 23 and weigh only 115 pounds. Am 5 feet 2 inches.

"SUCH GOINGS ON."

They park their cars in dark and lonesome places.

Where passers see their forms but not their faces.

And, let it rain or let the cold wind blow.

Love laughs at summer showers and winter's snow.

While crabbled age, forgetting all that's gone,

Would have a law to stop such "goings on."

"Such goings on," with Eve and Adam first began.

"Such goings on," have marked the trail of man.

Down through the ages all the shady trees.

Have lent their friendship to such scenes as these.

The world has changed and suffered countless pains.

But the sweet thrill of kissing still remains.

Oh, crabbled age, which sees them in the park.

Finds them on lanes and roadways after dark.

Recall the horse and buggy days when you

Stopped at the roadside for a kiss or two.

The vehicle has altered but the game

Of making love is very much the same.

And when a thousand years have rolled along.

With all that men shall learn of right and wrong.

And all that men shall conquer with their skill.

Water will run as usual down the hill.

And youth as usual will be frowned upon

By crabbled age that sees "such goings on."

A Trio of Popular Debutantes

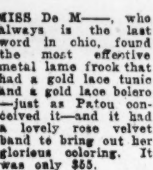

Came to Jelleff's in Search of the Loveliest, Smartest, Most Distinctive Evening Frocks in Town—and This is What They Selected.

THE FAVORITE MISS MARION I—was perfectly charmed by this lovely black point d'esprit frock with its adorable ruffled skirt and demure neck. The dress is perfectly stunning and the touch of scarlet in the velvet flower at the waistline. And was only $60—so she has bought several others.

MISS ELEANOR—found perfect expression of her delicate and girlish personality in this Jenny in white. The dress is perfectly stunning and the touch of scarlet in the velvet flower at the waistline. And was only $60—so she has bought several others.

MISS DE M—was always in the last word in chic, found the most distinctive metal lace frock that had a perfect design and a gold lace bolero—just as perfect as the dress itself. And it had a lovely rose velvet band to bring out her glorious coloring. It was only $65.

And these are only three instances of the glorious new evening frock collection in our Misses' Colonial Frock Shop.

SLAVES OF SULTAN GAMBLE IN PALACE

Place Is Transformed Into a Casino Patronized by All Classes.

Constantinople, Nov. 17 (By A. P.).—A new tyrant, maker and breaker of fortunes, reigns in Yildiz kiosk. The favorite palace of Abdul Hamid, arch tyrant of the Ottoman empire, has been transformed into a gambling casino where those who were once trembling subjects of the sultan are now making obeisance to the king of chance.

Former palace officials, secretaries, eunuchs, concubines, slaves, who passed years in the kiosk without seeing more of the interior than their own appointed corners, are now trooping even into the rooms where the imperial harem was guarded from all eyes except those of the sultan. The butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker are clinking coins in the stately hall where Hamid and his one-time guests, the former Kaiser of Germany, secretly gambled.

All classes of society and a score of nationalities are craning about the tables of roulette and baccarat in this historic hall, while in an adjoining salon Turkish women of the new unveiled day dance the Charleston to the latest of jazz tunes.

HIGHBROW REVUE IS FORCED INTO JAZZ

London Manager Says That Reason Is New-Rich Refuse to Think.

London, Nov. 17 (By A. P.).—Jazz demands have knocked London's highest highbrow revue into a cocked hat.

Sir Francis Towle, hotel manager, who has endeavored to raise the standard of London's cabarets, says his efforts have been in vain, and he has been compelled to revert to jazz from the other side of the Atlantic to satisfy the public here.

Sir Francis says he gave Nigel Playfair a free hand to stage "Will Bagwell's Ballad" at a cost of 3,000 pounds, but the production lasted only three weeks, when the attendance became so lack that the ballad, written four centuries ago, had to be replaced by "The new rich hate thinking," declared Sir Francis, "as they prefer noise, and at least six London managers are soon to sail for New York in search of jazz pieces for the London music halls and cabarets."

UMBRELLAS IN THE STREET CARS.

NOBODY knows how annoying a shut umbrella can make itself in the street car, and how it annoys the woman till he has tried to make his way up the aisle of a crowded car on a rainy day. Men are not more sensible than women, goodness knows, nor more unselfish, but somehow in the matter of umbrellas they do seem to be a little more practically understanding.

I had occasion to take a street car the other day—a rainy day; and, as I got in, my eye was nearly put out by the slanting stick of an umbrella held over the seat of a stout old lady holding herself in ahead of me. At the door she changed the slant to an upward one and nearly got me again. To avoid her I pushed myself gently but firmly ahead and found myself stumbling against an umbrella thrust out at an angle from the side of an indifferent young lady who was reading a book. As I discovered a seat, well down the car, and looked back, I saw five umbrellas all bent toward the middle of the aisle, three on one side, two on the other, making the passage to the door neither more nor less than an obstacle.

JOY SMOKE EASY WINNER IN CENTURY HANDICAP

Two-Year-Old Event to Sankari

Field Horses Victors in First Two Races; Spugs Ahead.

Double Win Scored by Rancocas Stable at Bowie.

Special to The Washington Post.

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 17.—The Boulevard purse, a dash of six furlongs for two-year-olds, and the Century handicap for all ages at a mile and a sixteenth were provided as features at Bowie this afternoon. Small fields went to the post in both of these events and odds-on favorites finished in front in both.

Sankari was an easy winner of the two-year-old affair while Joy Smoke was never out of a canter to win his race. There were five starters in the Boulevard purse and Sankari was all ways at a short price. It looked a case of all over but the shouting at the start and results proved such to be the case.

Fator sent the brown son of The Finn to the front after they passed the half-mile pole and from there home it was simply a case of just how far he would win.

Entering the home stretch he drew away into a four-length lead and the finish found him under restraint with a two-length lead over the Whitney colt Afterglow. The latter beat Sun Forward a neck for the place. Jimmy Butwell, who understands that old rogue Joy Smoke had no trouble with him at the post this afternoon. They were at the barrier just about long enough to line up and when the gate was sprung Joy Smoke broke well. They had not gone a hundred yards before the favorite was in front and galloping with his ears pricked and he was never out of a pull until the finish when he won by a mile and a half.

Butwell then shook Joy Smoke up a bit and he again drew away to win at the end by a length and a half going away. Willie K. was second eight lengths in front of Harry Baker with Cloudland a distant trailer ten lengths further back.

There was an improvement in track conditions but the footing was still heavy. Summerlike weather prevailed and a large crowd turned out.

The opening race of thirteen to travel six-furlongs and field players had their innings when Bobby Jones, one of four that composed that group, made good. He was returned the winner in a drive although having enough in reserve to hold the closing Vortex safe enough to beat him out a length while a half length farther back came Pomonkey with Medium an exceedingly close fourth.

The second, a dash of six furlongs, brought another field of thirteen and like the first, a number of field horses accounted for the major end of the purse. Lady Glasen and Rimrod, racing for S. H. Dudley and G. J. Day, respectively, shared the remainder of the purse between them.

Mormon was the one to grab the big end of the purse when he came through an opening at the head of the stretch and, going into a lead of two lengths, he gamely to get the decision by a length and a half.

Lady Glasen saved the place by a neck from Nimrod. The latter killed off Wellfinder, the early leader, the first half-mile but was unable to resist the winner's rush.

The first double victory to be scored in one day by any racing establishment during the present season fell to the prowess of the Rancocas stable, of New York, when Celdon made a show of the opposition he encountered in the running of the Capital city purse, which had the fifth position on the program and for which another field of four answered the call for the mile and 70 yards test.

Celdon made the double when he scored a mild drive over Forever and Ever and Salta with Royce completing the field. After Celdon gained the lead entering the back stretch there was very little left to make the contest a real one.

Platters of the cheap variety faced the starter for the semifinal number, the running of the Rancocas good contest which was accounted for by Spugs. Mildred Sherer, at rather long odds, gained the second portion of the purse, beating out Red Wingfield a small part of a length. The early running found the latter leading the parade.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA
 Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action: It soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.
 Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.
 Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist - Adv.

NEW YORK AVENUE CORNER WILL HAVE TRAFFIC CONTROLS

Electric Signals to Be Flashed
On at Fifteenth Street Saturday.

PEDESTRIANS URGED
TO USE CROSS WALKS

Moller Also Asks Vehicles to Keep Out of Center of Intersection.

Control of traffic at Fifteenth street and New York avenue by means of electric signal lights is scheduled to begin following the morning rush period Saturday. This was announced yesterday by Lieut. Col. I. C. Moller, assistant director of traffic.

The lights have been installed and with them has been erected a temporary booth in the middle of the intersection, from which traffic will be controlled. It is expected that this booth will be exchanged, when the traffic control at that corner shall have passed the experimental stage, for a more ornamental fixture and one designed to interfere less with clear vision.

Col. Moller voiced a special request that all vehicles except street cars and pedestrians keep out of the middle of the intersection, in order that a traffic habit may be contracted at that corner which will minimize danger of accidents.

Meets Public Desire.

"We have made pedestrian regulation as light a burden as possible," he said. "It only applies at intersections where there is traffic control by electric lights. Now, after eight years, we are restoring a free intersection at Fifteenth street and New York avenue. In removing the traffic barriers at this point we feel that we are responding to a public desire."

"But the barriers in question were placed there because the corner was deemed a hazardous one for traffic, both vehicular and pedestrian. For these reasons we ask the public to unite with us in an effort to reduce the hazard after the corner is opened."

"We especially request pedestrians to cross only over the crosswalks. Keep out of the middle of the corner where the car tracks turn, and cross streets only when the green lights are showing in the direction in which they want to go."

Victims Report $1,100 In Thefts to Police

Property aggregating more than $1,100 in value was reported stolen yesterday. The stolen goods include two diamond rings, estimated value, $450, missing from the home of William Blaney, 231 S street northwest, and a diamond butterfly stickpin, valued at $200, stolen from Mrs. Mary Buford, Somerset apartments.

Curtis Campbell, 151 Third street southwest, told police his home had been entered and clothing valued at $40 and $33 in money taken. Others reporting thefts are Mrs. Ruby Miller, 3411 Twenty-ninth street northwest, John Lambros, 1009 Fourteenth street northeast, Harry Darnall, 1709 Ninth street northwest, and Jacob Levine, 1300 Eleventh street southeast.

Commerce Chamber Seeks New Members

A three-day membership campaign for the Washington Chamber of Commerce was launched by Leo B. Abernathy, chairman of the membership committee, at a luncheon at the Occidental hotel yesterday. Forty-five members on the committee will report each morning at 9 o'clock at the chamber headquarters in the Homer building and at luncheon at 1 o'clock at the Occidental to tabulate results.

Dorsey W. Byrd, Jr., newly elected secretary of the chamber, who assumed his duties yesterday, spoke at the membership luncheon. Mr. Byrd will speak on "What a Chamber of Commerce Means to Washington" before the Quota club, meeting at the Women's University club at 12:30 o'clock today.

New Plan May Force City Bus Terminals

Interstate motorbus lines entering Washington may be put to the necessity of reorganizing their operating arrangements, if the public utilities commission adopts a proposal to require them to provide terminals, now being formulated by Maj. W. E. R. Covell, assistant to the engineer commissioner. The proposed regulation would apply only to those bus lines entering the congested part of the city, as defined in the traffic rules. It would specify that each line from outside the District coming all the way downtown must have a terminal on privately owned ground, with waiting and rest-rooms, places for posting of schedules, ticket offices, where tickets are used, and facilities elsewhere than on public space for loading and unloading passengers. The regulation is expected to be presented today or tomorrow.

Passenger Sues Both Autoists.

Marie A. Quessy, Navy Department employe, filed suit yesterday in circuit court against Edward L. Sinclair and Harry Morganstein to recover $25,000 damages for alleged personal injuries. Through Attorney O. H. Osterman, she says that on July 13 she was riding in Sinclair's automobile when a collision occurred between his machine and one owned by Morganstein at Four-and-a-half and E streets southwest.

Driver Escapes In Crash.

John C. Williams, 25 years old, 3033 Fifteenth street northwest, escaped serious injury yesterday when the taxicab he was driving turned turtle after collision with another automobile at Sixteenth and U streets northwest. Williams returned to his home after treatment for minor lacerations at Emergency hospital.

Navy Yard Plumbers, Painters Ask Raise

Complaints that the government is not paying the same wages as those of private firms to its navy yard workers here and elsewhere, were reiterated yesterday at the closing session of the navy wage board of review at the Navy building.

Representatives of painters, plumbers and pattern makers spoke. It was asserted that painters receive higher wages from outside firms, and $1.12 an hour was urged as a wage for pattern makers in all navy yards on the Atlantic seaboard. This is lower than that paid by private corporations, it was stated. The board requested that assertions on wage differences be followed with proof and will begin its consideration of requests tomorrow.

BILL TO PRESS TRACTION MERGER NEARLY READY

Exact Nature of Public Utilities Measure on Unification Not Determined.

COMMISSION WORD FINAL

The bill to be presented by the public utilities commission to Congress to bring pressure on local street car companies to induce them to merge under arrangements that will meet with the commission's approval has entered final stages of preparation. It was announced yesterday at the District building.

A tentative bill has been drawn up and is being considered simultaneously by Maj. W. E. R. Covell, assistant to the engineer commissioner; Earl V. Fisher, secretary to the commission, and William McK. Clayton, special temporary counsel to the commission. It has not been determined whether this bill shall be along the lines of proposed awards and penalties, such as increase of taxation if the companies do not merge and decreased financial burdens if they do, or whether it shall contain threats of revocation of charters and unrestricted motorbus competition if a merger is not agreed to.

After the members of the commission's staff agree on their proposals the bill will be placed before the commission for approval. It was stated that the local street car companies have not presented terms for a proposed merger measure in response to the commission's invitation and that the North American Co. has not submitted information as to the renewed efforts its representatives recently said he would make to bring about a merger, nor as to the alleged violation of an act of Congress charged in that corporation's acquisition of securities of local transit companies.

NURSES OPEN DRIVE FOR $38,000 FUND

Visiting Association Makes First Appeal for Public Aid in Two Years.

The board of managers of the instructive Visiting Nurse association today begins a campaign for $38,000 to complete its 1927 budget. Two years ago the association conducted a campaign, agreeing not to ask for more until the end of two years. This agreement has been scrupulously kept. The association reports a large increase in its activities. An increase of 2,216 patients and 15,510 visits in 1925 over the previous year is reported. A total of 88,504 visits to 10,625 patients is shown. A new health center which serves the Southeast was started last February. A new educational director and an assistant supervisor have been added to the staff.

According to Miss Gertrude H. Bowling, director of the society, the original plan had been to open a center in the Northeast section this autumn, but funds were not available and the organization had to cut back the budget by two nurses.

"How far we can increase our work in Washington depends upon our financial support," she said.

RABBI SIMON SPEAKS ON UNIVERSITY LIFE

Too Much Unnecessary Muckraking in Colleges, He Tells Assemblage.

Holding that literature and drama are exploiting the college youth of today, Rabbi Abram Simon last night told an assemblage of college men attending the Washington Hebrew congregation's annual university night, that there is "too much unnecessary muckraking" in current tales of university life.

"The college youth is marked by self-assertion, not rebellion," he said, "and is in need of supervision, not surveillance. It is wrong to suppose that the college problem is an extension of the juvenile delinquency problem. What is most needed is sympathetic understanding and friendly environment."

Following Rabbi Simon's address an entertainment was presented consisting of an act from a local theater and musical numbers. A piano solo was by Miss Goldie Goldstein, after which all present were led in group singing by N. D. Frank. The committee on arrangements included Leon Pretzfelder, Allen DeFord and Sherrey Stein.

Rise in River Causes Minor Damage Here

Tuesday's freshet in the Potomac river caused little trouble locally, according to reports from the United States engineer office yesterday. Its crest has passed and only minor damage, such as lost boats and some washed-out piling, was reported from the Washington water front.

The rise was from 3 to 5 feet higher than normal and the overflow from the north abutment of the Arlington Memorial bridge, which was flooded, was being pumped out yesterday.

President Approves Promotions in Navy

President Coolidge yesterday approved recommendations made by a selection board for promotion of officers of the navy dental corps to the rank of commander.

MRS. B. R. FOGEL SUES FOR 2 PAWN TICKETS

Blair, Irey and Gidding Named in Court Action Charging Unlawful Seizure.

Mrs. Mary Fogel, of Philadelphia, wife of Benjamin R. Fogel, filed suit in equity court yesterday against David H. Blair, commissioner of internal revenue; Elmer H. Irey, chief of the intelligence unit of the bureau of internal revenue, and George E. Gidding, special agent of the unit, to recover two pawn tickets, which she says were seized unlawfully March 24 on a train at the Union station here, when her husband was taken into custody.

According to Attorney McNeill and Maher, counsel for Mrs. Fogel, the tickets represent $500 in jewelry and must be redeemed by December 8, next. Fogel was taken into custody on the train while en route to Florida and arraigned before Commissioner Turnage on an indictment returned against him and three other persons in Cleveland, Ohio, charging conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws.

Mrs. Fogel says she was taken to the Treasury Department and the tickets taken from her and that she is being held as a set-off against claims for income tax against her husband. Fogel sued out a writ of habeas corpus and his case is in the Court of Appeals.

EFFICIENCY BUREAU WILL BE REQUESTED TO STUDY CAPITAL

House Committee Feels More Coordination Is Needed in City's Government.

DEPARTMENTS SHOWN ACTING INDEPENDENTLY

Extension of District Building Southward Is Urged by Auditor Donovan.

The bureau of efficiency will be requested to make a study of the District government with a view to effecting better coordination of the departments. It was decided yesterday by the House District investigating subcommittee.

This action was determined upon after the committee had heard Maj. Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor. Aside from the coordination by the departments under the board of public affairs and those making up the engineering department, the local government is more or less a system of separate bureaus, proceeding independently about their respective businesses.

There was a suggestion that the efficiency bureau might not be able to undertake the study, but Representative Gibson, chairman of the committee, made known that he planned to confer with Herbert D. Browne, chief of the bureau.

Condemnation Is Favored. Both Gibson and Representative Houston, of Delaware, who so far have borne the burden of the resumed hearings, agreed with Donovan that coordination among all of the departments should be brought about, and especially that the office of the registrar of wills and record of deeds should be brought under the local government. They are now operated independently, but they should be brought under the District government was one of the recommendations made by the efficiency bureau, which has just concluded a study them.

Gibson and Houston made known, too, that they favored the proposal of grouping the scattered local government agencies in an extension of the present District building, the extension to spread out over thirteen-and-a-half acres.

The present indications are that there will be a gap there when the Federal government completes its $50,000,000 building program.

In fact, both committee members said that if no reasons to the contrary develop, this proposal, quite likely to form a part of the general reorganization plan to come out of the committee.

Omnibus Bill Planned.

In this connection, it developed that it is the idea of Gibson and Houston that the subcommittee should report early on the order of an omnibus bill at the conclusion of its study. The committee, it is pointed out, is making a long-needed study of the local government, and its conclusions are to be put in the form of proposed legislation, with the subcommittee remaining behind it until the needed changes are effected.

The property adjacent to the District building needed for the proposed extension was valued at about $750,000. Donovan told the committee the extension would embrace the new Police Court building, juvenile and municipal courts, the office of the registrar of wills and registrar of deeds as well as quarters for the new public utilities commission.

The subcommittee has evinced considerable interest in the proposed establishment of the judicial system of counties and plans to develop some opinion on the matter.

Miss Sherwin Guest Of Voters Tomorrow

Miss Belle Sherwin, president of the National League of Women Voters and the State executive committee of the Maryland league, will be the guest of the Montgomery County League tomorrow at luncheon at the Congressional Country club.

Miss Sherwin, who recently returned from the South and West, will speak of the work of the National League and the political progress of women in the United States. Mrs. Charles E. Elliott, president of the Maryland league, and Miss Lavinia Ringle also will speak. The luncheon will be presided over by Mrs. B. Ashby Leavelle, chairman of the Montgomery County League of Women Voters.

City Club Will Hold Fifth Musical Tonight

The city club will hold the fifth of a series of semi-monthly musicals tonight at the club building. Walter Hotel and his Nordic mandolin and guitar orchestra and the Nordic Banjo club will be present. The concert will be broadcast over WJAL.

The Nordic club will be assisted by Miss Annabel Bird in a group arranged for the Hawaiian guitar and by Miss Elizabeth Parker, Washington soprano, in two special groups of old songs.

Police and Firemen Receive Game Funds

Proceeds of the Labor day baseball game between teams representing the police and fire departments were distributed in the District building yesterday.

Commissioner Proctor L. Dougherty, in behalf of the committee in charge of the game, presented checks for $18,017.12, each to Maj. Edwin B. Healey, superintendent of police, and George S. Watson, chief engineer of the fire department, for the relief associations of the respective departments.

Telegraph Company Is Sued.

C. M. Liphart, trading as the Washington Steel Products Co., filed suit yesterday in circuit court against the Western Union Telegraph Co. to recover $7,500 damages for alleged failure to deliver a telegram to a steel salesman in Richmond, Va., on October 7. Through Attorneys McNeill and Maher, the plaintiff says he had arranged with the salesman to meet him in Richmond at a certain time and because of the failure to deliver the telegram he lost the sum claimed as damages.

$5,000 Verdict Returned.

Samuel W. Taylor, of Hyattsville, was awarded a verdict for $5,000 damages in a circuit court suit against Harry A. Bramow, contractor, for injuries alleged to have been sustained in the erection of an apartment house at Georgia avenue and Aspen street in June, 1925. The plaintiff was employed by Bramow as a carpenter. Attorneys Ryan, Seal and Dice appeared for Taylor.

Divorce Suit Dismissed.

The suit for absolute divorce filed by Francis S. Simpson against Mrs. Nell E. Simpson on August 19 was dismissed for want of prosecution yesterday by Justice Bailey in equity court.
